Citizen blasts budget

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A Romulus post-graduate university student and city leaders exchanged jibes Monday night over the Romulus City Budget.

Chuck Griffiths, who said he has been a 15-year Romulus resident, presented computer print-outs in which he charged the city budget fund balance has dropped from $2.84 million in 1988 to a planned $47,219 in 1995.

He argued that a fund balance should be at least 10 percent of the total budget or at least $1 million. "This fund balance offers no cushion during such changeable financial times," he said.

"A budget should be easy to obtain, easy to read, well-planned and make use of statistics," Griffiths said. But claimed that the Romulus city budget was "not easy to obtain, not easy to read, not strictly followed and was short on statistics."

Griffiths, who expects to be awarded his Masters degree in Public Administration by the University of Michigan this December, claimed that at the current city fund balance ratio it will be $1.3 million in the red by the year 2000.

Griffiths' rapid fire charges apparently dismayed Mayor Beverly McAnally and the city council members.

McAnally said Griffiths' computer printouts were "grossly misleading" and stated Romulus city government has "operated on the policy for many years of not banking city residents' money. We just collect enough taxes to pay the bills each year."

The mayor also charged, "The claim the budget is not strictly followed is baloney. You will have to prove that one to me."

McAnally told Griffith, "I'm happy with your degree and I know you want to be city manager here, but you need to be more accurate. We have won several prestigious awards for our budget efforts."

Griffith tried to interact with comments made by McAnally and council members, but Council pro tem Randy Gear, filling in for the missing Mayor pro tem Mary Banks, kept telling him, "You no longer have the floor."

Romulus 10K run revival is praised

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus Michigan Week Festival 10 K Run was revived last Saturday as hundreds of runners and volunteer support team workers turned out in the blazing sunshine to aid the Michigan Lupus Foundation fund raising event.

Dorothy West, 10 K Run director, commented, "I was very excited about Saturday's turnout of runners, city officials and citizen volunteers, who made the event a major success."

"Everyone from Mayor Beverly McAnally, who helped shoot off the cannon to officially start the race, and Treasurer James Napiorkowski to the local resident volunteer, who helped supply the runners with water and encouragement, are to be praised and thanked," West said.

In addition, West added, a former Romulus resident, Lloyd Ward, a 1966 Romulus High School graduate and now the president of Frito Lay Co. in Texas, is to be congratulated for his company's sponsorship of the revived race.

"Lloyd was to appear in Romulus on Saturday and actually take part in the run," West said, "but had to have eye surgery and was forced to miss the festival."

But Scott Wilson, a lupus victim and the official supporter of the 10 K Run, joined the Saturday activities and took part in a 5 K walk. In addition, Kim Roberts, director of the Michigan State Lupus Foundation, also turned out to thank the many participants and volunteers on behalf of the lupus victims of the area.

The pair said the educational value of the 10 K Run cannot be over emphasized, since so many people are not aware of the lupus disease and the fact that it often kills victims 10 years following diagnosis.

West took over directing the 19 K run this year, after a year long absence of the popular athletic activity.

"We even had runners asking the date for next year's run," West said, "because they wanted to make sure it was on their 1995 calendar."

McAnally and the Romulus City Council members voted to have an official resolution thanking West for her involvement be forwarded to her soon.

West was inspired to have the 10 K Run support Michigan Lupus Foundation efforts following the lupus related death of her mother, Dorothy Ball, in 1979, she said.

The overall Romulus finisher in the 10 K Run was Ryan Darnell, 18, son of Kathy Darnell, at a time of 39 minutes, 8 seconds.

Mayor continues pitch for stadium in Romulus

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

"The game is not over on Romulus getting Tiger Stadium located within the city," Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally said at a political breakfast last Thursday, "because Romulus has not yet been up to bat."

McAnally speaking before an audience of 150 at the Romulus Marriott Hotel, said, "We will be meeting with the Ilitch family next week. We still feel Tiger Stadium belongs in Detroit, but if that is not possible we feel Romulus needs to be considered the first alternative next."

The mayor also stated that her administration had met with representatives from various Michigan Indian tribes at their initiative and discussed the casino issue.

McAnally said she formerly opposed any casinos in Romulus, but has taken a "180-degree turn" on the matter. "No one can show me that the Bible speaks out in opposition casino gambling and governments need to come up with some alternative sources of revenues."

The mayor added, "I have come to believe that casinos are an economic not a moral issue. And now with casinos opening in a neighboring city in a foreign country (Windsor, Canada), we see it as a sobering issue as we must respond to the threat of potentially mil-

Boy, 5, is killed by van

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A 5-year-old Romulus boy was killed when his Big-Wheel style bike shot into the street Saturday night, police said, and he was struck by a slowly-moving passing van.

The victim, Kyle Witherow, son of Tom J. and Denise Witherow of the Huron State Park Subdivision, was given emergency aid by neighboring firefighters, Fire Marshall David Allison and Lt. Darrell Dufore, and then was rushed to Ann Arbor Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 6:10 p.m., less than 20 minutes after the crash.

According to traffic officer Rick Schwartz, one driver passed the Witherow's driveway only an instant before the accident. The driver told police he "saw the boy come shooting out of the driveway" just after he passed by and "then saw the boy hit by a van" as he looked through his rear view window.

Schwartz said a parked vehicle blocked the driver's view of path the boy on the cycle was taking.

The 45-year-old woman driver of the van (a neighbor of the victim) backed up the van, Schwartz said, and the two neighboring firefighters began CPR work on the victim.

Schwartz said the investigation is continuing.

The victim, who was born in Garden City, also is survived by a brother, Ryan Thomas, age 7; grandparents, Edward F. and Ann Witherow of Ocean-side, Calif. and Jean L. Burke of Romulus, and great-grandparents, Eleanor Witherow of Oceanside, Calif. and Mary Robinson of Mount Pleasant, Penn.

The funeral was at St. Aloysius Catholic Church with Father Michael Malawy officiating. Arrangements were coordinated by the Crane Funeral Home. Burial was in Parkview Cemetery of Livonia. Memorial gifts are being accepted by the family.

School board race heating up

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The two challengers for the Romulus Community School Board seats in the June 13 race, Julie A. Oleszkowicz and Judi Gondek, are stressing that the local school board needs to be "revitalized" and that citizen involvement is crucial to the success of the district in the year 2000.

The two education activists are running as a team and feel the district finances, since the voter approval of Proposal A, school curriculum, parental involvement and the district accountability are among the key issues at stake in this election.

Gondek, 37, has worked in the past with the school district as a para professional for one year and a lunch room aide for six years. She also has been active with the Barth Elementary School Parent Teacher Council, Junior High Parent Organization and District Technology Committee.

"Due to the passing of Proposal A, we are once again facing a deficit for this school year and will in all likelihood start the 1994-95 school year at a higher deficit," Gondek said.

"A plan needs to be in place, not just dollar signs floating on a piece of paper," Gondek charged, "and options that otherwise may have been overlooked as too 'meager' should be examined as well as the impact cuts and layoffs will have on our children and their futures."

Gondek also said, "I have not noticed that there is any continuity in school curriculum, especially at the elementary level. The district has goals and objectives, but I don't feel they are being followed closely enough to see that they are being met."

Volunteer parental involvement has been a key to her family's relationship, Gondek said, and other parents "should never feel they don't have the right to go into their child's school building."

"Volunteer work is hard, but is often rewarding," she said. Gondek also urged parents to get out to the regular school board meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Gondek, wife of Richard W. Gondek, is the mother of two children.

Her campaign partner, Oleszkowicz, 42, has been a substitute school secretary, Wayne County Area Director of the American Cancer Society and most recently was an account representative for

New Salvation Army building opens doors

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

More than 200 area public officials and supporters of the Salvation Army turned out Sunday afternoon for the official dedication of the $1.1 million Wayne-Westland Corps Community Center.

Lt. Col. William Speck, commander of the Eastern Michigan Division of the Salvation Army, expressed delight with the "overwhelming" community support for the building project that, he said, "We envision will become a beacon for community understanding and proof of God's love for us as individuals."

Highlighting the dedication were:

- A procession from the old Norway Center, 2363 Venoy Road, to the new Wayne-Westland Corps Community Center across the street, 2300 Venoy Road.

- The retirement of the old Norway Flag used during the Salvation Army five-year activity period at the Norway Shopping Center storefront facility on Venoy Road in Westland. Corps Representative Morgan Talman officiated.

- The presentation of the new Wayne-Westland Flag by Col. Dennis L. Phillips, central territory chief secretary, to Gladys Beach, corps representative.

- Official presentation of the keys for the new community center to local Corps Commander Lt. Donna Price by architect Scott Sherman and builder Tom McMahon.

The crowd was welcomed to the ceremony by Col. Speck.

Also on hand to address those in attendance was Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, who told of his youthful memories of growing up in a housing project near the open fields.

Thomas said at that time youth played in the open fields, because there was "no where else to go." He also predicted proudly that the new center will have a major positive influence on Westland and neighboring communities.

Phillips, the main dedication day speaker, said, "Today we are not only dedicating a building, we are dedicating our lives to Jesus Christ."

"This indeed is a beautiful structure, but the true beauty is inside our hearts. We need to view our lives as a temple of God."

Musical specials were interspersed throughout the program by the Salvation Army Harbor Lights Choir, the Dearborn Heights Citadel Ensemble and two corps soldiers, Margaret Jolly and Mary Lou Durbin.

Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard also presented the Salvation Army with an official resolution supporting the efforts to turn the center into a recreational base for youth, a bridge builder between various segments of local society and a program site that will help youth and adults respect the differences in cultures today.

On behalf of the corps staff and volunteers, Speck presented a special plaque to Gordon Howard, a full-time Salvation Army volunteer, who co-ordinated the plans and fund drive for the new corps site.

A total of $60,000 has been collected to date toward the $400,000 fund drive goal for the center, Howard said recently. He said it is hoped that the remainder of the funds can be collected in the next 12 months.

Congressman endorses aide

At a Friday morning news conference at the Inkster Recreation Complex, Congressman William Ford, (D-13) endorsed David Geiss, his former aide, for the Democratic nomination to his congressional seat.

After 30 years in Congress, Ford will not seek re-election to his post in November.

Ford left an education conference in Greenfield Village, which was a non-political event, to announce what most party people had already guessed - that the veteran congressman would endorse his long-time associate for the post he was leaving.

"This is the first time that he (Geiss) hasn't written something for me to say," said Ford, who noted the similarities in background of he and his would-be successor - both are from similar family backgrounds and lived in southeastern Michigan most of their lives, starting their career in Taylor politics. "If you want change, don't vote for David."

Ford said Geiss would have an advantage over several new representatives in Congress because of his long-time service on Ford's staff.

"David hits the ground running. All of the senior members of Congress already know him and have worked with him for years," Ford said.

Before making his decision to run for Congress, Geiss said he consulted with Ford on two issues - whether Ford felt that he was best qualified for the job and if he would have the congressman's endorsement. "Only when Congressman Bill Ford answered both in the affirmative, did I decide that I would seek election to the seat," Geiss said.

"I'm proud that they choose Inkster to make this announcement," said Gene Thompson, president of the Inkster Democratic Club. "Inkster is 95 percent Democratic, and we were proud to support Ford in the old 14th District and in the new 13th District."

"When you look at the record, you see that Ford got overwhelming support in Inkster in the last election, and to be successful this year, they selected the place where they have been successful in the past," Thompson said.

Hotel is sold,
will close Friday

The Romulus Howard Johnson Hotel located at 8600 Merriam Road will close Friday, a hotel spokesman said, and will reopen sometime in the near future under new ownership.

The hotel building has been at this site for about 20 years, the spokesman said, and has been a Howard Johnson since October 1990.

Instruction
ballot unveiled

The Wayne County Election Commission has released the contents of the Monday June 13 Romulus School Board and Special Election ballot.

School Board trustee challenger Judie Gondek has taken the number one position on the ballot.

Gondek is followed in order by incumbent Mary M. King, challenger Julie A. Oleszkowicz and incumbent Ed Wilkerson. The four school candidates are seeking two open seats on the school board. The four year terms will expire on June 30, 1998.

On the same ballot is city Proposal A, also known as the Environmental Protection millage.

The ballot language states "Proposed Amendment to Section 11.1 of the Romulus City Charter to change the taxation power of the city by increasing the total millage from 10 to 11 mills for five years.

One mill dedicated solely for environmental protection, then returned to 10 mills after five years."

The actual ballot question then reads "Shall Section 11.1 of the Romulus City Charter be amended to increase the millage from 10 to 11 mills for five years, 1994 to 1998 inclusive, with one mill ($1 per $1,000) dedicated solely for Environmental Protection?"

The referendum requires a yes or no vote.

New student member selected

Dawn Detroyer, who will be a Romulus High School junior in September, has been named to replace graduating senior Jason Hudson, as the student representative to the city recreation commission.

Recreation Director Brian Hitsky announced Detroyer's selection in a recent letter to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

Council members voted in favor of Hitsky's recommendation on Monday night.

Detroyer is a life-long Romulus resident and carries a 3.4 grade-point-average at the high school.

Out-of-towners
face fee charge

City Council members approved a $25 fee for non-resident use of Romulus Historic Park, particularly the gazebo area.

Recreation Department Director Brian Hitsky recommended the fee to help defray clean-up costs, particularly when the park is used for a wedding site.

lions of southern Michigan dollars traveling across the border.

"We don't feel we are competing with Detroit on this issue either," McAnally said, "as we all will benefit from casinos in the Metropolitan area."

McAnally's message climaxed a two-hour breakfast sponsored by the McAnally Campaign Committee, chaired by Jane Downing, the city Community Development director.

After hearing talks from Metro World and other planned development leaders, McAnally said, "Nothing is for certain, but everything (discussed today) is within our reach."

She concluded, "We must be willing to reach out aggressively for these opportunities."

Indian guest praises Rotary anti-polio effort

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Four guests from eastern India were entertained by the Belleville Rotary Club last week as part of its Rotary Group Study Exchange (GSE).

A recognition luncheon was staged at the Tin Lizzie Restaurant in Belleville on Thursday to honor the GSE team leader, Dr. M.V.S. (Sam) Rao.

"Sam is not really my name. If you call my house and ask for Sam, my wife wouldn't know who you wanted," said Dr. Rao.

He praised the Rotary efforts to eradicate polio from the world by 2005.

"It means a lot to India.

More than 93 percent of the population has been vaccinated now," said Dr. Rao. "I know people who have had polio, but my two daughters, 12 and 8, do not know victims of polio in their generation."

Dr. Rao said the recognition luncheon was a highlight of his trip, and "this afternoon will be remembered for a long time."

The team leader from Indian is 39 and is a veterinarian who owns a shrimp farm which exports its product to Japan, the United States and other countries. He is a charter member and past president of the Rotary Club of Vijayawada Midtown.

"The Rotary Group Study Exchange Program is a worldwide program dedicated to the exchange of ideas, cultures and experiences between teams of non-Rotarians in participating countries and dedicated to world peace and understanding," said Don Juchartz of the Belleville Rotary. "Since its inception in 1965, Rotary International has sent more than 15,000 young people to countries other than their own to live in Rotary homes, visit businesses, governmental and judicial systems and to experience the social and economic life of a different culture."

Area Coordinator Harlan Whichello, of the Romulus Rotary Club and owner of Belleville Die Co., gave two of the female guests from India an unexpected treat when he presented them with tickets to the Barbara Streisand concert.

"They were very pleased to get the concert tickets. The popularity of Streisand must extend around the globe," said Whichello.

The area coordinator was responsible for arranging trips to the culinary arts department of Schoolcraft College, the hydroponic greenhouse at EQ-Willow Run Farms in Van Buren Township and the Ford Motor Company Truck Plant in Wayne. He also arranged vocational days during which the guests spent the day with people in similar occupations or endeavors.

Liquor license transfer approved by council

City Council members approved a liquor license transfer for the owners of the current Romulus Liquor Store, despite four past liquor violations.

The listed owners of Saco Enterprises Inc., Qies Saco and Nasser Yahia, are planning on moving their store from 30825 Eureka Road in the Oakbrook Plaza to a location just east of the plaza at 30601 Eureka Road.

Yahia was charged and convicted of filing a false report on Oct. 2, 1989 in the 34th District Court, police reported.

The Romulus Liquor Store also was charged with three counts of sales to minors.

Police recommended approval of the license transfer and Councilman Randy Gear reminded the owners to be more strict with their employees sales efforts.

Hotel is robbed

A lone bandit slipped into the main office of the Merriam Executive Inn Tuesday morning and robbed the clerk of an undisclosed amount of cash, police reported.

The 28-year-old female clerk from Taylor told police the bandit entered the hotel at 2:44 a.m. and calmly told her, "Just give me the money," as he held out a knife with the blade unextended.

As the clerk sought to comply with the demand, the bandit added, "Hurry up, I said

Police said the bandit then prepared to leave. But first he turned back toward the clerk and warned, "If you press anything, I'll kill you!"

Romulus police were alerted and were told the bandit was a black male, about 5-feet, 4-inches tall, 30-40 years of age, had a medium build and was wearing a blue baseball cap, and denim jacket and jeans.

A police search dog from Van Buren Township was called to the scene, but was unable to locate any suspect, police said.

Veteran Councilman Bill Wadsworth complained, "I resent your charges and your gloom and doom attitude. This is a council that cares and doesn't squander money."

Councilman Ellis Pennington echoed the complaints of his peers by saying, "I've probably been on this council longer than you have been alive and I don't care if we only have 15 cents left at the end of the year, we are not going to start banking citizens' money."

Pennington said, "Your three minutes are up, but I want to know, do you want to be our city manager?"

Griffiths responded, "no." Then he turned to Wadsworth and declared, "The mayor inspired me to take public administration on in school."

McAnally again admitted she did encourage Griffiths to study public administration. "But," she added, "would you kindly stop tying up my city employees for two to three hours at a time!"

Griffith then stormed from the council chambers. He later said he was appalled by the treatment he received from city leaders.

She also reminded voters that the district is losing the enviable "out of formula" and every school system in the Detroit area will be forced to make budget cuts. "My main concern is that the cuts be made with as much evaluation of their impact as possible."

Oleszkowicz also charged, "At the present time there is no clear-cut curriculum in our district, and the disparity between what is presented from school building to school building and class to class is appalling."

She also questioned the academic integrity of the district, stating, "We are trying to graduate the generic student. We do not try to ingrain the concept of lifelong learning until our students reach high school and by then it is often too late."

Oleszkowicz hit the "classroom disruptions" caused by the many visitors' tours. "Our buildings may look impressive, but our systems will be dinosaurs without more creative ways to finance their upgrading."

While praising the district "Partners in Education" program, she asks that a similar program be set up matching volunteers with other educational needs, including involvement with parents' groups.

Oleszkowicz said many modifications need to be made in the district because of changes effected by Lansing politicians. "I feel meaningful changes can only be brought about with new people and ideas," she said.

Oleszkowicz, wife of Ronald Oleszkowicz, is the mother of a 13-year-old daughter, Bekah.

The two challengers are facing incumbents Mary M. King and Ed Wilkerson.

Employees experience a taste of other cultures in workplace

"Diversity in the Workplace" was an unusual day of activities at Wayne Community Living Services (WCLS) in Wayne.

A committee on diversity operating in conjunction with the human resources department developed "A Taste of Culture," a program for the more than 270 employees of WCLS.

Randy Skeete, director of the Office of Academic Enrichment at the University of Michigan Medical School, addressed WCLS staff as a keynote speaker.

"Diversity is a virtue that needs to be more than tolerated," said Skeete. "It needs to be encouraged so that we all know where we are coming from. Research shows us that minorities in the workplace think that they are not understood and accepted; whereas administration and the rest of the staff feel that the minorities are more than adequately understood and accepted."

Billie Waddell, chairperson for the event, said the purpose of the program was to further interpersonal and cultural understanding which "are really part of the development of a multi-cultural work force, the agency's Equal Employment Opportunity effort."

Staff members dressed in traditional attire and set up displays of the various cultures represented including: Armenian, Maltese, Norwegian, African-American, Italian, Native American, Jewish, Irish, Korean, Filipino, Nigerian, Liberian, Christian and global.

Various fashion shows of native dress as well as ethnic singing and dancing demonstrations / participation took place throughout the afternoon. Lunch was prepared samples of various ethnic fare.

The center of the luncheon was a room devoted to bread-with samples from the many different cultures represented in the WCLS workplace- Hawaiian bread, pumpernickel, Australian sourdough, French, tortillas, matzos, corn bread, Irish soda bread, pitas, parutham, focaccia and urban.

"What we did today helps us understand the work WCLS is doing with persons who have developmental disabilities," said James Dehem, executive director for WCLS. "In a world that easily labels people who are perceived as different, we focus on the similarities persons with disabilities have in common with everyone."

"In a society that puts a price tag on every uniqueness, we focus on the differences and contributions each person can make with or without a disability."

Dehem added, "When we check out our ancestors, we learn that our mothers and fathers, grandmothers and great-grandfathers left the security of home and family to come here. We learned about the prejudices and oppression-religious, racial, sexist, nationalism-that brought them here. Our parents, or their parents or their parents' parents that lived as strangers in a land they were beginning to claim as their own. They fought and continue to struggle for civil rights that today we recognize person with developmental disabilities historically deprived of."

WCLS is a non-profit human service agency serving people in Wayne County with developmental disabilities.

Manager injured in robbery

ANP Special Writer

The manager of a local Farmer Jack supermarket was injured during an armed robbery at the store early Friday morning.

According to Westland police reports, three masked men entered the Farmer Jack at 132 Merriman at approximately 2:55 a.m. Though the store is open 24 hours a day, only four employees were working at the time of the robbery. There were no customers in the store during the incident, according to police reports.

The gunmen rounded up three of the employees but missed the fourth, who was in the store stockroom, witnesses told police.

Cyclist struck by car

A 21-year-old Canton Township man is in critical condition at the University of Michigan Hospital following a bicycling accident involving a motor vehicle last weekend.

The man was riding in the area of Palmer and Lotz roads Sunday when a 28-year-old woman driving a black Dodge collided with the cyclist just before midnight. According to police, the Canton Township woman exited her vehicle, told the man she was going for help and drove to a friend's house where she called 911.

The victim was transported to Annapolis Hospital by Canton Township Fire Personnel for head and facial injuries. He was then airlifted to the Ann Arbor medical unit.

The victim's hat and bike were found on the shoulder of the two-lane highway, feet away from the man. The windshield wiper blade of the vehicle was also located near the fallen victim.

specified amount of cash from one of the store register drawers and demanded the money from the safe. After determining that none of the employees knew the combination, one of the gunmen hit the store manager in the head with the gun, according to reports of the incident.

The victim, Timothy Potts, was taken to Annapolis Hospital, where he received six stitches for injuries to his head. Potts was released a few hours later, police said.

The suspects fled the scene in a late-model maroon Chevrolet Monte Carlo. According to detective Don Haig, police are looking for three black men in their early 20s who were described by the employees as the perpetrators.

Hang On To The Dream

New television show to feature local teens as guests each week

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

Just when you thought nothing positive ever shows up on television these days, along comes a new program which features extraordinary kids who become role models for other youngsters.

Hang On To The Dream which is expected to air on Channel 4 June 18 is a news-magazine that focuses on kids between the ages of 8 and 19 who have special skills or talents.

On June 28, John Glenn High School baseball/football stars Bryan and Derek Besco will be featured in the segment. The dynamic duo has already achieved scholarships to attend the University of Michigan.

Host and producer for the WDIV show is Detroit-born

"I just want other kids to have the chance to fulfill their dreams like I had. I tell kids to take chances."

Christopher Ewing

actor/model Christopher Ewing. Ewing said he understands all too well the thoughts and fears of his age group and knows the struggles of believing in ones dreams.

"I've selected the Besco twins because they not only excel in sports, but they manage to maintain a 3.9 grade point average," Ewing said. "With the show, I try to focus on the talent of the kids and then find local businesses who will help fulfill their dream by supplying various items they may need like art supplies or sports equipment."

Ewing said he actually came up with the idea for the show three years ago.

"It all started with the theme song I wrote, Hang On To The Dream," Ewing said. "That song reached and inspired a lot of people so I wanted to do more with it."

Growing up in a single-parent home in the inner city, Ewing had a love for horses and fought many obstacles, including racism, to become one of the top African-American riders in the history of equestrian show jumping.

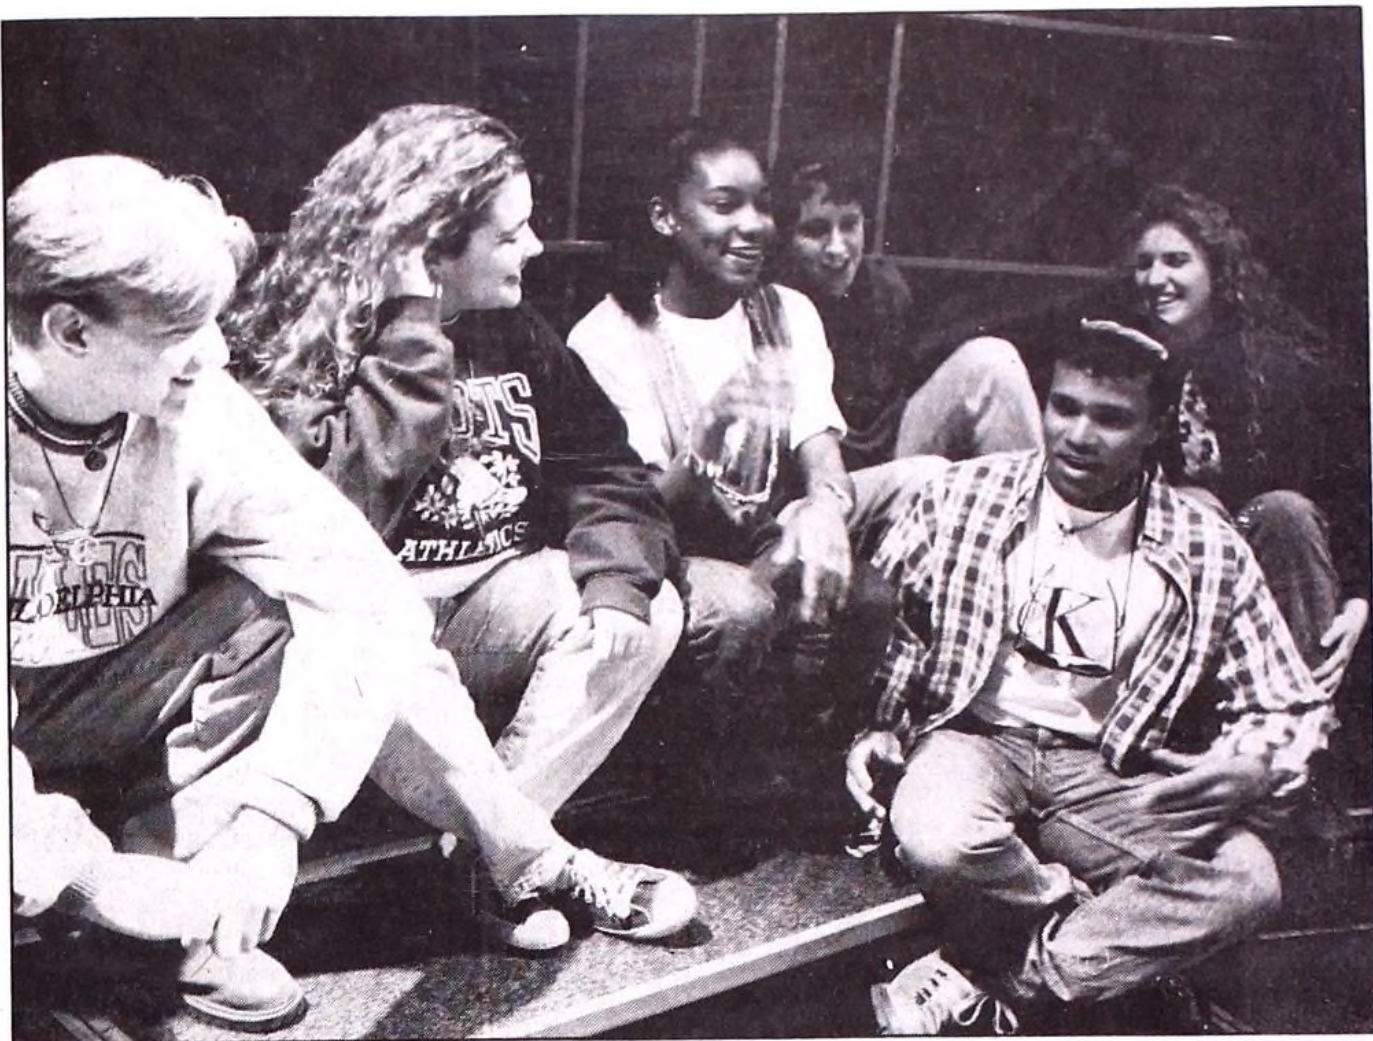

In 1992, he became the first black rider to be listed in the Guinness Book of World Records. As an actor, he has appeared on a variety of shows including All My Children, One Life to Live and Kate and Allie.

"I finally got the pilot for the show together, and decided to introduce it to television stations in the area where I grew up," Ewing said. "I was very pleased with the positive response that I got."

Ewing's acting career began when he was only 16 years old. He started modeling and then appeared in numerous commercials.

"At the time I knew I enjoyed what I was doing, and I wanted to continue in this profession because it was a lot of fun," Ewing said. "When I was a senior in high school, they were casting for All My Children. I sent in pictures and called constantly. It was through my persistence that I was able to do three episodes on their show."

Ewing said his most enjoyable acting experiences have been working on the soaps and sitcoms.

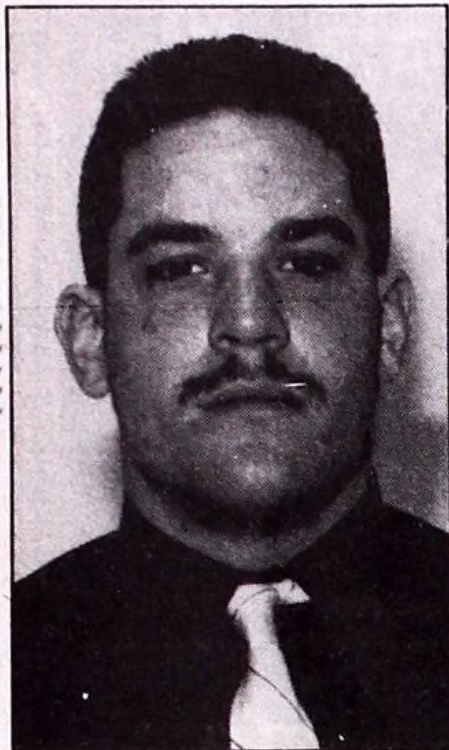

"I just want other kids to have the chance to fulfill their dreams like I had," Ewing said. "I always want to learn more and improve myself. I tell kids to take chances and go for what they really want to do."

Hang On To The Dream will also feature a celebrity who will reveal their childhood dream and how they achieved success. Future special guest stars will include Tim Allen from Home Improvement and Michael Richards from Seinfeld.

Ewing was invited to speak before the drama class of Simonne Grzesik at John Glenn High School last week. He offered a few words of advice for the acting students.

"The biggest thing I can tell you is to follow through with your dreams," Ewing said. "Acting is probably one of the hardest businesses out there. You're at the mercy of many people including the casting director and producer. You have to believe in what you want to do and make it happen."

Investigation into landfill fire continues

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

The investigation continues into the cause of the explosion that erupted at EQ-The Environmental Quality Company last Wednesday.

"We are conducting our own investigation, along with those by the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Natural Resources and Van Buren Township," said EQ Vice President Jerry Fore.

"It is a complex situation, and the more we look into it, we find the answers are not getting any simpler," Fore said. "We don't want this type of incident to happen again. We can't allow it to happen again."

Fore said there is no time limit on the investigation, but he expects some answers to surface in two weeks.

"We are working hard in this investigation, and expect answers in a couple of weeks," the vice president said.

"Safety and full regulatory compliance are our top priorities," said Fore. "We are working with the waste generator and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) to determine exactly how the waste was characterized, analyzed and managed. It still isn't clear why this happened, but we are gathering all of the facts and will take whatever steps necessary to prevent it from happening again."

"The community has a right to know what is happening at our facility and we will provide the results of our investigation as soon as we have conclusive information," said Fore.

A waste sample was retrieved from the barrel that was involved in the fire and additional testing confirmed that the waste was not reactive. Testing done on a new waste sample, provided by the generator, also failed to show reactivity, according to EQ.

Operations were resumed Friday at the east side of the plant where the fire occurred, after repairs were made and an extensive structural analysis and recertification process were completed. Plans were made to put the plant back in full operations by Monday.

Fire damage was confined to the front portion of the east bay where "characteristic" hazardous wastes are treated. The fire did not cause any structural damage, but it burned paint off walls, knocked out the overhead lighting system and burned the wiring that powers the internal conveyors. An outer door was also slightly warped from the heat, a firm spokesman said.

At approximately 12:05 a.m., Van Buren Township firefighters and police officers responded to a fire which was ignited by a magnesium waste substance at the hazardous waste landfill, formerly known as Envotech, and remained on the scene for some eight hours.

The scene was cordoned off and the Western Wayne Hazardous Incident Response team was notified.

According to the Van Buren Public Safety Department, the fire started when a worker at the treatment plant was opening a 55-gallon drum containing a magnesium alloy. The magnesium ignited, causing a small explosion and fire. Workers attempted to extinguish the fire with sand, but the fire has already spread to other chemicals. The workers evacuated the area with no injuries.

Van Buren Police officers, assisted by the Michigan State Police, Wayne County Sheriff, Wayne County Airport police, Washtenaw County Sheriff, and police from Belleville, Romulus and Canton Township, closed the I-94 service drives on both sides of the freeway between Belleville and Rawsonville roads as a precautionary measure.

"We had 28 firefighters from Van Buren Township plus 20 from the Western Wayne Hazardous Incident Response team," said Fire Chief Al Smolen. "We didn't clear the scene until 8:10 a.m., about eight hours from when we responded. In the first hour and one-half we had the majority of the fire out. The remainder of the time was spent mopping up the hot spots, sampling the air and monitoring the smoke pattern."

"Our main goal is to protect the residents and rescuers. We closed I-94 to be sure that people would not be contaminated as they drove by," Smolen said. "We monitored the air at Harbour Club Apartments, across the freeway, and when the wind shifted in its direction we encouraged people to stay indoors and keep their windows closed."

The fire chief said the explosion and fire, which produced a "significant event," did not affect the subdivision adjacent to the landfill because of the wind direction.

"Thank God for the mutual aid. They did a fantastic job and we received a lot of cooperation," said Van Buren Public Safety Director Mark Perkins. "Now, we are investigating the incident along with the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Natural Resources."

Perkins said his next step would be to re-assess and evaluate the response from his department and to review all of the procedures involved in the operation.

Opinion

One at a time

Last week, an interested resident phoned to inquire about our plans for the handling of the upcoming Wayne-Westland school board race.

Our answer, I'm afraid, provided her with little satisfaction, and did us no credit. But our lack of interest, concern and public involvement, we were surprised to discover, is a genuine and accurate reflection of the attitude of the public regarding this elected group.

We believe that area parents have had enough of the divisive politics, special interests and private agendas evidenced by this board. Recently when one candidate dropped out, announcing her support for another woman seeking office, she claimed that the alignment of factions on the board is clearly evident. When asked about any such alignment, each group cited the voting record as proof that the other side was, in fact, guilty, but they were independent, innocent and only had the good of the district and the students in mind.

We don't think so.

We admire the frankness and candid remarks of Richard LeBlanc, a board member who recently addressed the issue at a public meeting, chastising his fellow board members for their conduct and reminding them that parents and families are leaving the area and the district, moving to other areas, based on the performance of the schools and the lack of response to their children's educational needs.

These are, overall, good people. They were elected by people who placed their confidence and their trust in them. But they cannot seem to get along, to act professionally and to disagree in an adult and productive manner.

This simply isn't working—as evidenced by the lack of interest in the school board election by the public. This board and the previous trustees have bickered, battled and beaten the reputation of this district into shambles. Parents are too discouraged to take any campaign promises seriously. Voters simply do not believe that anything will change. They have, unfortunately, given up.

Not long ago, voters went to the polls and chose to replace nearly every incumbent on the school board, to no avail. The petty politics and personal, hidden agendas are still there, poisoning the ability of this body to make policy and provide an effective education to area youngsters.

So, when we seemed disinterested, it is because we are, like most of the area residents, discouraged, disillusioned and dismayed. We've replaced them, chastised them and offered them our advice and counsel. And still, they continue to render themselves ineffective.

Will this election change them? Will one new personality on this board provide what is needed?

Not when what is needed is a total realignment of priorities and attitudes. Not when animosities and personal agendas run as deep as those on this board apparently do.

And not until the confidence of the community can be restored and the effective management of a school district wrestle the parochial interests and private prejudices of the present members into submission.

Or perhaps, not until each of the present board members has been replaced...one by one.

Hey - you called us

Recently, we learned that several part-time police officers in Van Buren Township had complained that remarks made to a reporter regarding their working conditions appeared in the newspaper.

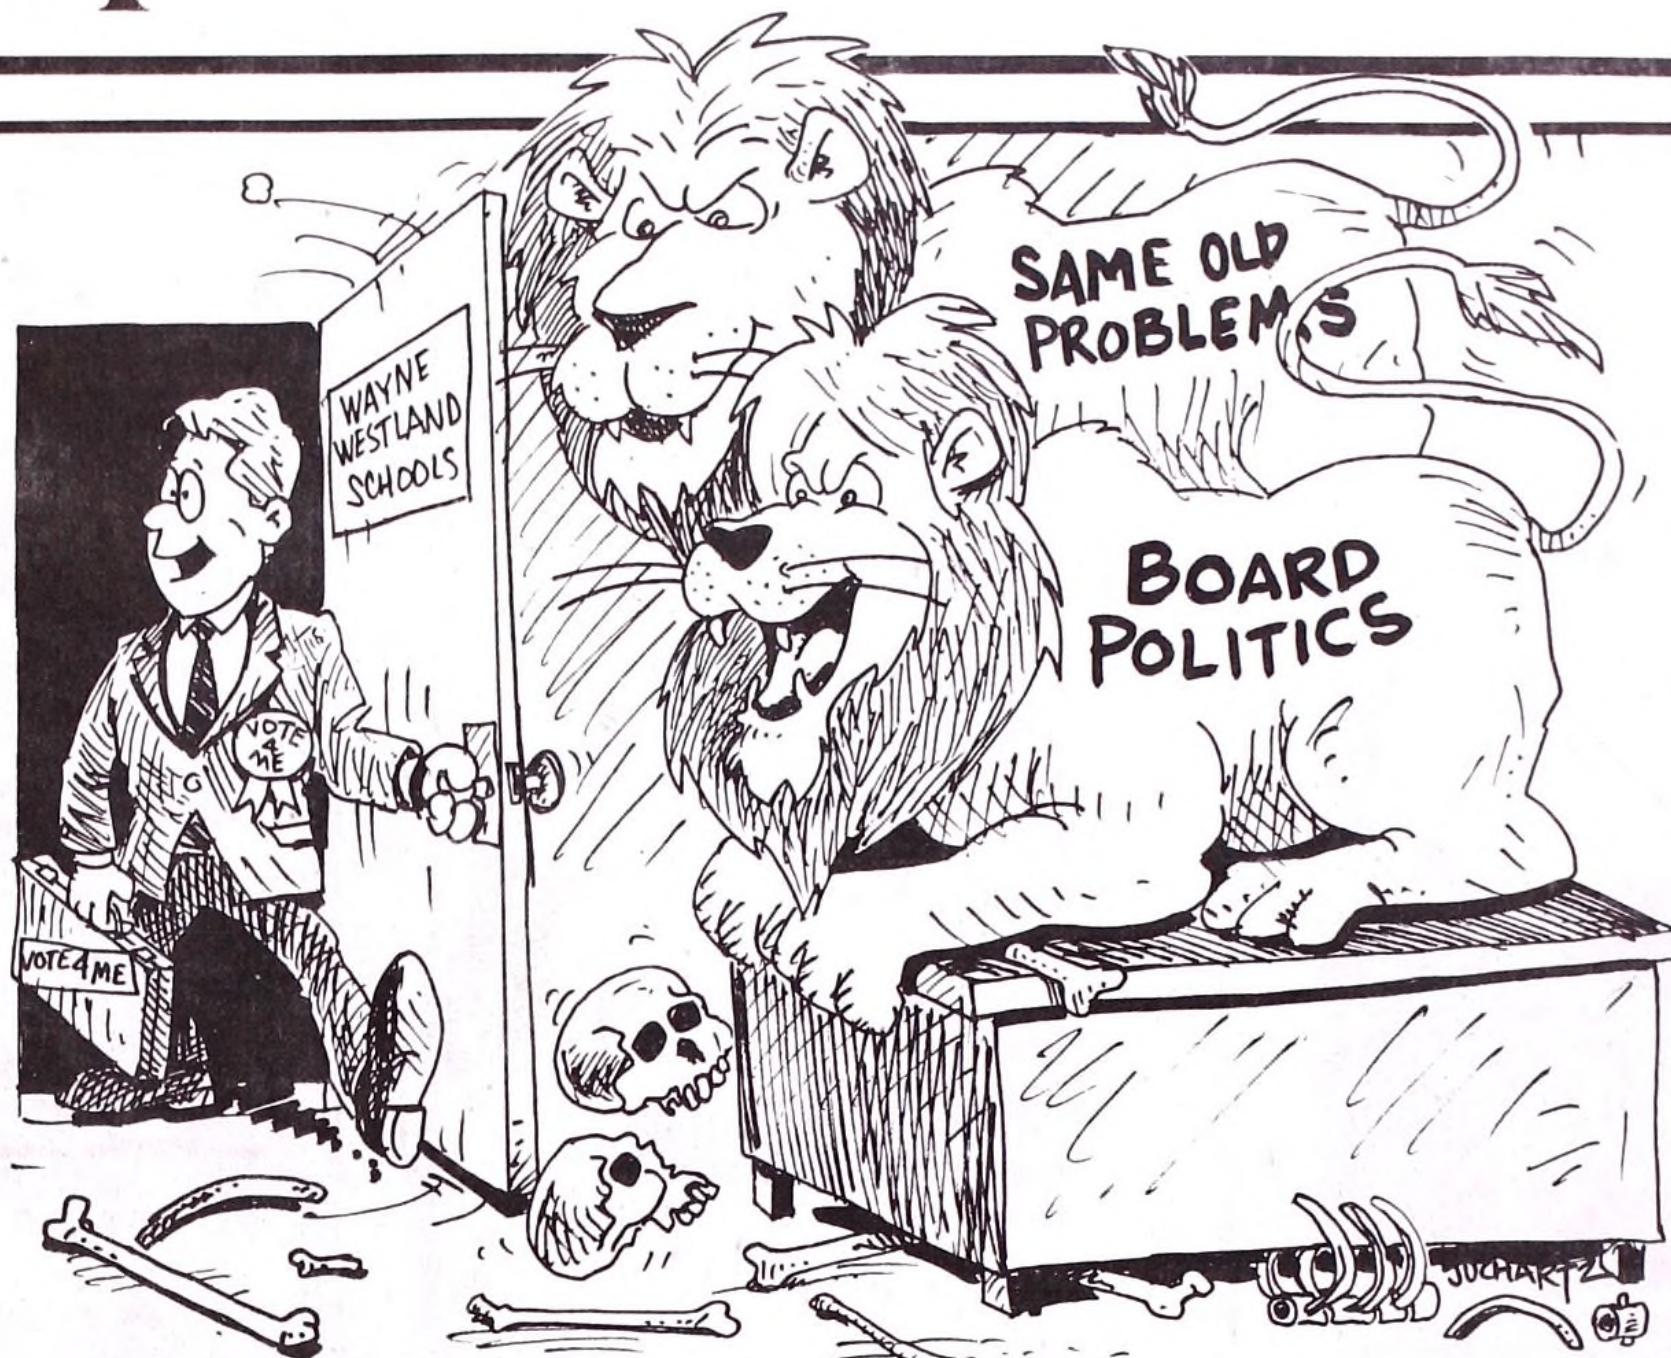

They further implied that the reporter had sought them out and coerced the remarks from them.

That is not the truth of the situation. The remarks were made, in context, by those who were accurately quoted after they sought out the ear and publicity the news editor could offer.

She did her job, quoted them accurately, and sent the story to press.

And now, they have received exactly what they wished for—the glaring light of publicity has illuminated their concerns and their comments.

Perhaps they are finding it a bit too hot for them.

Pay raises blasted

To the editor:

This letter is, first and foremost, to pay tribute to the employees who work for the City of Romulus; the people who cut the grass in the summer, shovel the snow in the winter, keep our water flowing day and night regardless of the temperatures, those who plow the streets, hand the signs and banners, those who maintain the police and fire equipment and last but not least, the clerks and secretaries who shuffle the endless tons of paperwork; all the unsung employees who provide the service and keep the city moving, the employees who just do their jobs asking nothing more in return than a decent and fair wage so that they too may pursue the Great American Dream. I want them all to know that they are appreciated and have worth, mostly because I felt that appreciation lacking in the people who hold political office and are the "keepers" of the infamous budget process which predicts for the coming year whether or not all employees of the city will be treated in a fair and equitable manner.

If my fellow taxpayers had attended any of the two study sessions on the 94/95 fiscal year budget or sat in on the public hearing for that same budget, you might have determined that the City of Romulus had only three employees; the administrative aide to the mayor, the deputy clerk and the deputy treasurer. A storm of controversy and argument prevailed because, lo and behold, after voting unanimously for a budget amendment some 18 months ago or so, it dawned on these "hep" politicians that the administrative aide to the mayor was making a substantial amount of money over that of the deputy clerk and deputy treasurer. Well, never let it be said that these "hep" people are not aware, fair and persistent, the loudest prevailed—somewhat—so that in the new 94/95, the deputy clerk and the deputy treasurer will receive a salary increase of $716 per year plus "payroll benefits" (whatever that means). Now these two employees are on parity with the assistant personnel director (which is probably a whole other story.)

Are there to be like pay raises in the budget for any of the other city employees—union or non-union alike—NO. Will any of the other employees of the city get the 3-percent increases given to the three top elected officials after they were elected last November? NO. Will the powers-that-be go to the negotiating table with a 0-0-0 and a less benefit package? PROBABLY. And will this directly affect all other employees? You can bet a dime on that. Well, maybe not all—the trick is to get the ear of a council person who is more ambitious than fair-minded, more interested in power than justice and wants a sure vote from one rather than appreciation from all and you may just be able to feather your nest. Of course, other employees will not fare as well but then top dogs, the decision makers, never do have to take the losses and are surely never held accountable.

Special interest politics criticized

To the editor:

The Bible tells us that money is the root of all evil. If that is true—then money given to politicians by special interests as campaign contributions must come directly from the devil's own checkbook.

The special interests dominate our political institutions at every level. From the school board to the Congress—money has taken over the political process lock, stock and barrel.

It's no wonder that decent people avoid politics like the plague.

As a nation, we are not lacking in highly intelligent and well-informed citizens. Our universities are literally filled with Nobel Prize winners. And, our corporations have some of the best organizational minds in the world.

Yet, our politics languish behind. In politics—mental midgets abound; mediocrity is everywhere. Everything is reduced to the lowest common denominator. Real solutions are ignored so that politically correct myths can be perpetuated. Opinion leaders are almost totally absent. Opinion followers and cowardly poll watchers fill our legislative and executive offices.

Who is responsible for the dismal state of our politics? The answer is obvious—the voters are responsible.

Voters should start thinking for themselves. Voters should ask themselves—is this or that candidate merely a stooge for some wealthy special interest or does the candidate have the long-term interests of the public in mind.

So, think twice before you vote. Weed out those candidates who are merely the tools of the wealthy public sector unions or other special interests. It's not really that hard to do. Don't get mad. Get out and vote. Vote against the special interest politicians. Today—we are all hostages of special interest politics. But tomorrow—with a little effort—your vote could set us free.

City management of funds questioned

To the editor:

As a long-time Romulus resident and professionally-trained public administrator, I think it's about time I chimed in about just where the City of Romulus is headed. I have read the city's 1993 year-end financial reports and the new budget. I've talked with citizens and I've watched council meetings. To say I am very concerned is an understatement. Our property values and the quality of our lives are in peril. This trend can, and must, be stopped.

The citizens of Romulus have a right to know that our city is in trouble. The root of the problem is the complete lack of planning for the coming property tax changes. At a time when the city should be spending cautiously, it is dipping into our savings to cover current shortfalls. What's left after the city has "dipped" is completely inadequate. Romulus is facing a horrible crash if we don't do something now.

The rapidly evaporating fund balance is planned by the city to be less than $42,000 in 1995 (one-half of 1 percent (.005) of the budget). At the Annual Michigan Public Management Institute, a professional conference for administrators and academics today in Lansing, a municipal accountant from Plante & Moran accounting firm said a fund balance of less than 10 percent (.1) of the budget (even more in small communities, like Romulus) is very risky.

Romulus should have at least a $1.2 million fund balance or a good reason why it doesn't. It has neither. Who knew about these standards and how the city is ignoring them? With economic uncertainty and tax changes taking effect, a comfortable balance of at least 15 percent (.15 or $1.65 million) of the total budget would be well advised, don't you agree? For comparison, Westland, with nearly five times the population of Romulus, is sitting on a fund balance of about 42 percent of its budget. Westland is well prepared for the uncertainty new tax changes will create.

For the second straight year, the 1994-1995 budget was "supplemented", this time by $880,000 (8 percent of the total $11 million budget) from our fund balance. The planned July 1, 1995 fund balance of $42,000 will not be able to make up the significant portion of city resources in 1995-1996 as it does in the 1994-1995 budget.

The city raided our fund balance for $880,000 BEFORE the tax changes. Does that sit right with you? Money should have been ADDED to the city's existing fund balance to prepare for the uncertain path ahead. Other cities have seen that building the fund balance at this time is wise, and I'm sure you'll agree that it is. Why then, has the city planned for ours to go so low?

In the coming years, the city will be faced with millage and assessment caps that will keep increases in income under the rate of inflation, all the while expenses will increase beyond the rate of inflation. The gap between incoming and outgoing is going to widen.

The city should be cautious until we can be more certain of the effect of all the new tax changes. Wouldn't you agree that this would be practical?

Administration, I find it difficult to understand how it all came to pass and more difficult to understand why no one is talking about it. Ignoring the problem won't make it go away. Doesn't the fact that we will have a completely insufficient fund balance going into the most uncertain time of tax change in Michigan history bother you? It scares me to death.

As citizens, we have the right to see documentation, attend City Council sessions, and make our informed choices at the ballot box. It's our town folks, we own it: lock, stock, and barrel. If the people we've elected to city office fail to act in our best interest, we have to let them know. If they fail to listen, we have to let them go.

Officers take 'risky' lesson

Local police officers and representatives learned just how important having policy in place and clearly defined criteria for decision making in emergency situations last week at a seminar titled "Emergency Vehicle Operation" at the Bailey Recreation Center in Westland.

Representatives of Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority were on hand to counsel and advise police and public safety department leaders regarding the risk involved in high-speed police chases and the liability of the municipalities and departments involved. Chuck Schwab, risk control director, Mile Ellis, claims director, and Chris Johnson, an attorney, adressed the concerns of the emergency police operation from the perspective of the insurance, legal and legislative sectors.

Canton Township Public Safety Director John Santomauro and Sgt. Bob Kerr of the Canton Police Department discussed policy, procedures and training during the day-long session.

Administrators from more than three dozen area law enforcement agencies attended the event which addressed the public scrutiny of high-speed emergency police driving and aided in the establishment of procedures and policy.

Belleville captures Class 'A' regional crown

Lunsford outstanding in victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Belleville High School track coach Dave Medley couldn't have asked for a better day or a better all-around performance from his team on Saturday.

With the temperatures between 70 to 80 degrees and, with every member of his team turning in their best performances, Belleville won a first-ever Class A Regional Track & Field Championship.

The championship, staged at Redford Union, is the Tigers' ticket to the Class A state finals which will be conducted a week from Saturday in Midland.

"It was a very satisfying performance," stressed Medley, commenting on his first regional victory in nearly two decades. "This was a team effort with all of our athletes improving their personal records. You can't beat that."

Medley said that the state finals will be "tough" because, "You will have the finest in Michigan competing."

"I would like to see us finish among the top 10," he added. "That would cap an outstanding season for us."

Belleville went into the inaugural Mega Conference, Red Division championships last night with a perfect 6-0 record after defeating a strong Dear-

Phillip Franklin will be heading for Ypsilanti in the fall to attend Eastern Michigan University (EMU) on a full-ride football scholarship.

After what the 18-year-old

Romulus High School senior pulled off at the Class A Regional Track and Field Championships staged at Redford Union on Saturday, maybe the EMU coaches may want to look at the outstanding all-around athlete in track as well.

Franklin captured a pair of gold medals in the sprints and also anchored the Eagles' winning 800-meter relay team. His three gold-medal winning performances lifted the Eagles to a second-place overall finish at Redford.

"This is our best finish at a regional," said Romulus coach

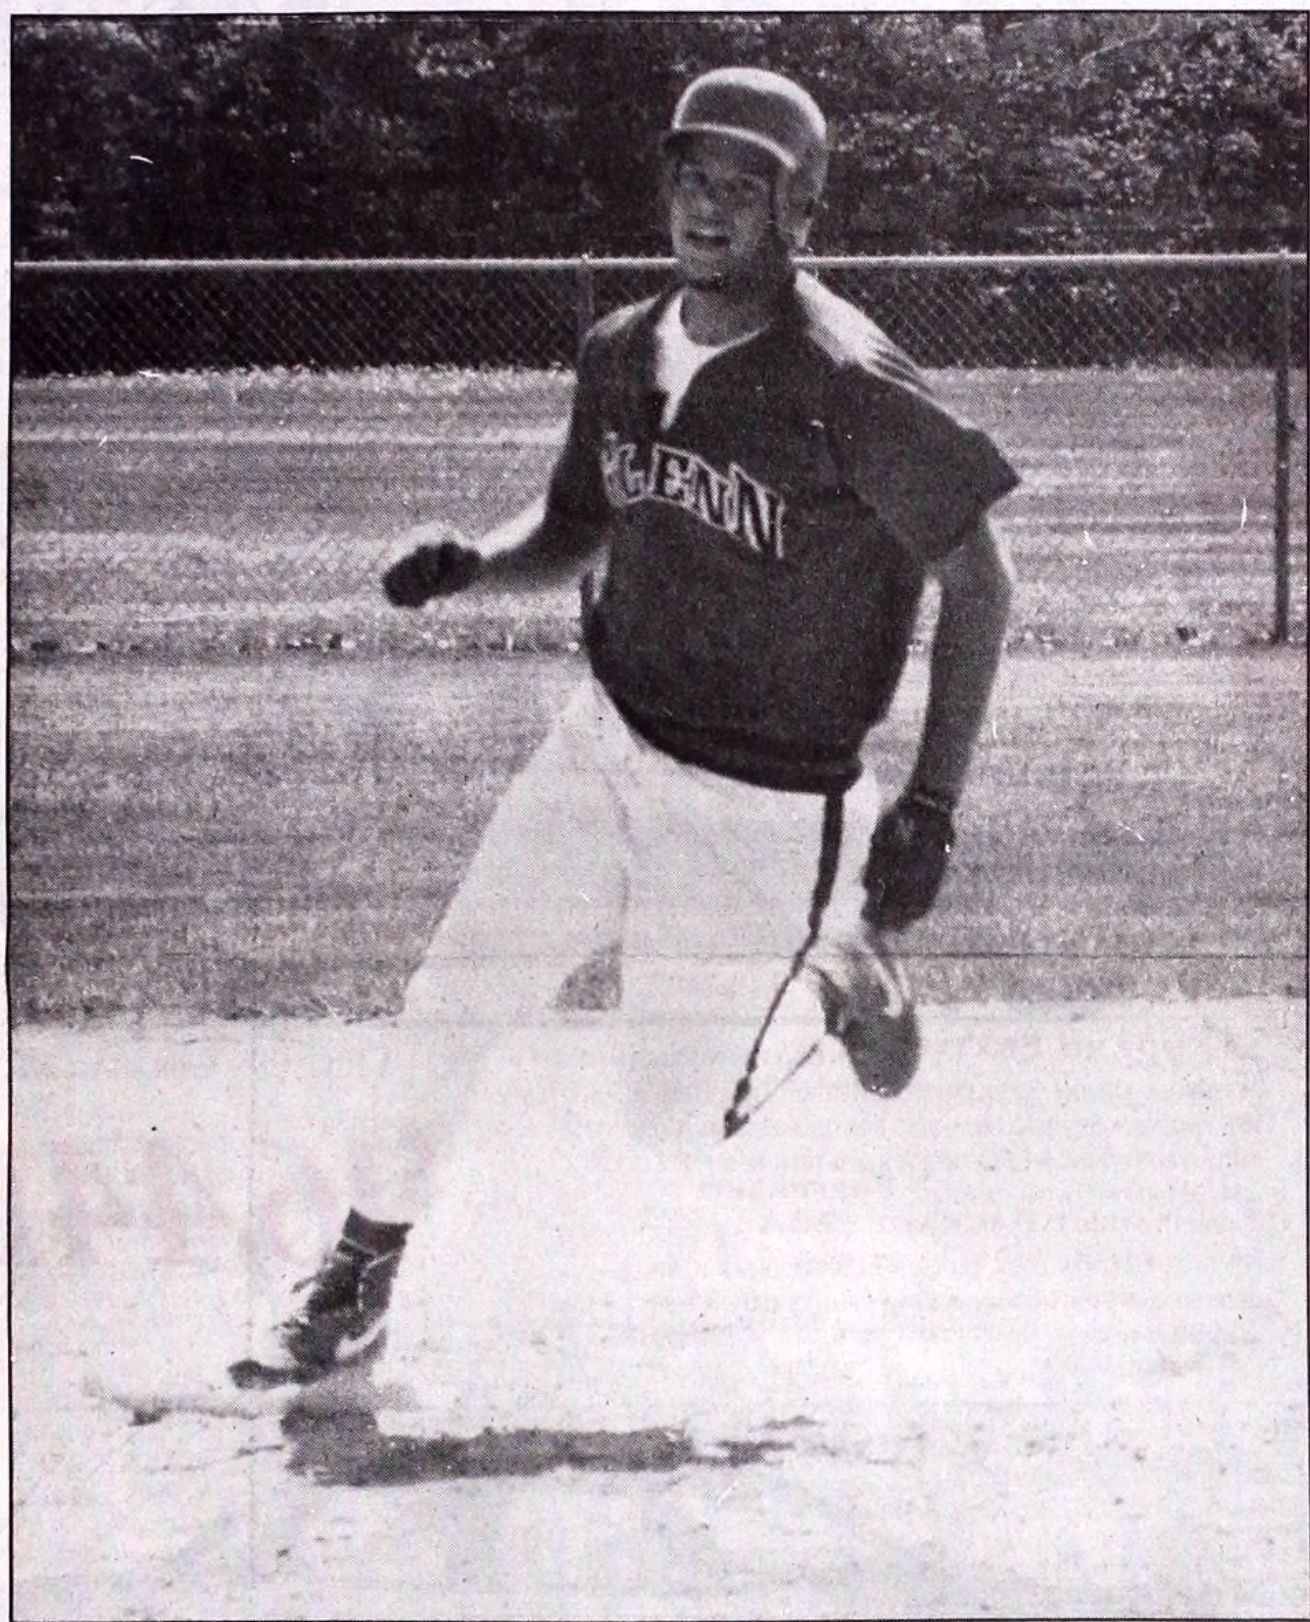

Norb Glover. "Franklin was exceptional and this team was outstanding. I am proud of all of my kids."

Romulus piled up 59 points for a silver plaque, losing the district title to Belleville. The Tigers were the class of the regionals with 108.5 points. Glover spoke of the Belleville team in superlatives.

"They have an excellent team and I have never seen a finer runner than this Lunsford kid. He's great."

Glover was referring to Be-

Rockets settle score with Salem, share title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With their ace Bryan Besco on the mound, Westland John Glenn High School players settled a score with Plymouth-Salem last week. The Rockets crushed the Rocks, 13-2, forcing them to share the 1994 Western Lakes Divisional Baseball title.

Salem defeated coach Norm Hoenes' Rockets 3-1 earlier in the season, and the rematch last week between the two Western Lakes powers decided more than who would have the divisional title.

It also determined which team would represent the division in the conference championships.

Salem got the nod by some strange conference rule.

In the meantime, Besco remained unbeatable. He notched 11 strike-outs, walked three and scattered three hits to chalk up the big win over the Rocks. He also helped his cause at the plate, hammering two hits in four appearances and collecting three runs batted in.

Teammate Jeromy Cosby also slugged two hits in four trips as Glenn exploded for seven runs in the top of the sixth to salt the decision away.

However, Salem, because of a strange way the conference counts crossover victories, will represent the division in the championship game. Glenn will play for third-fourth spots.

"With our victory over them last week, we will share the (divisional) title with Salem. However, they will represent the division in the championship game," said Hoenes.

Unofficially, Glenn is scheduled to host Livonia Franklin today at 3:30 p.m. to determine which team will finish third in the conference. On Saturday, the Rockets plan to travel to Willow Run where they will compete in an invitational which also will include teams from Romulus and Belleville.

Glenn managed to avoid disaster last Wednesday thanks to a top-of-the-seventh two-run rally that gave them a 4-3 victory over upset-minded Northville.

Glenn grabbed a 2-0 lead in their fourth, but the Mustangs came back and tied in their fifth, then added the go-ahead run in the fifth. Hoenes stayed with starter Brian Morrison who got the two runs in the seventh that gave him his sixth win in eight starts.

In the seventh, Cosby got to Northville starter and loser Rick Apligian for a pinch-hit single. He advanced to third on an errant throw, then Morrison walked and catcher Nick James also drew a base on balls to load the bases, bringing Bryan Besco to the plate.

Besco drilled a single to left center, scoring Cosby with the tying and Morrison with the winning runs.

In the fourth, the Rockets got their two runs on a walk to Mike Bint, Jerry Farrar's RBI single and Morrison's base hit drove home Farrar.

After sweeping Belleville for a pair (See Related Story) on Saturday, the Rockets entered the week with a 19-3 overall and a 9-1 conference record.

Lost opportunities Tigers split with baseball foes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When opportunity knocks, you're supposed to open the door - not slam it shut.

That's what Belleville High School baseball players apparently did last week. The Tigers didn't cash in when opportunities prevailed.

The Tigers left the bases loaded and couldn't capitalize against a state-ranked Westland John Glenn on Saturday and dropped a thriller, 7-6, in the first of a doubleheader at Glenn.

Glenn stormed back and blasted the Tigers 17-7 for the sweep.

The loss left coach John Bertz and his club with a 1-3 record for their troubles last week. They split with Mega Conference, Red Division opponents, falling to Wyandotte, 6-2, but turning back Lincoln Park 6-1.

Belleville went with No. 1 team hurler, Ralph Truitt, in the first game with the Rockets also throwing their ace, Bryan Besco. Besco worked the first four innings, and when he handed over the ball to reliever Jerry Farrar, Glenn had what appeared to be a safe 6-1 lead thanks to a 6-1 surge in the bottom of the second.

The Tigers however came back with four runs in the top of the fifth as Jacob Reeder walked, moved to third on an errant pickoff attempt, and scored with Dave Ford's one-out single.

It was one of the longest hit balls I have ever seen on this field. That ball traveled at least 500 feet.

- Norm Hoenes
Glenn coach

Then, Jeremy Gray walked and Charlie Way's infield grounder turned into a one-run error. Rodney Komorami's sacrifice fly produced the second Tiger run. Farrar gave up a two-run double to Matt Davenport, then retired the side via strikeouts.

In the sixth, with Mike Bint replacing Farrar on the mound, Belleville again had opportunities. Jacob Reeder walked with one-away and moved to second on Pat Wilkerson's single. Gray worked Bint for a base on balls, loading the bases. Way was hit by a wild pitch, forcing in the Tigers' sixth run.

However, Bint settled down and struck out the next two batters.

Jeromy Cosby led a seven-hit Rocket assault.

Wayne, Romulus clash in predistrict

By SCOTT HELD
ANP Special Writer

With the playoffs rapidly approaching, baseball coaches across the state are no doubt scrambling for scouting reports on potential first-round foes. Not Wayne Memorial High School coach Jim Chronowski, though.

He got a look at his first playoff opponent on the field.

With the playoffs just around the corner, Chronowski and company capped a 3-1 week with a doubleheader sweep of Romulus, who they'll face in the Tuesday pre-district match up at Garden City.

In the first game, Wayne (12-8, 7-5) trailed 5-1 with two outs in the sixth before storming back to win the game in the seventh. First baseman Jason Overton led a four-run charge in the sixth with a home run. Wayne knocked in another in the seventh to win the game 6-5.

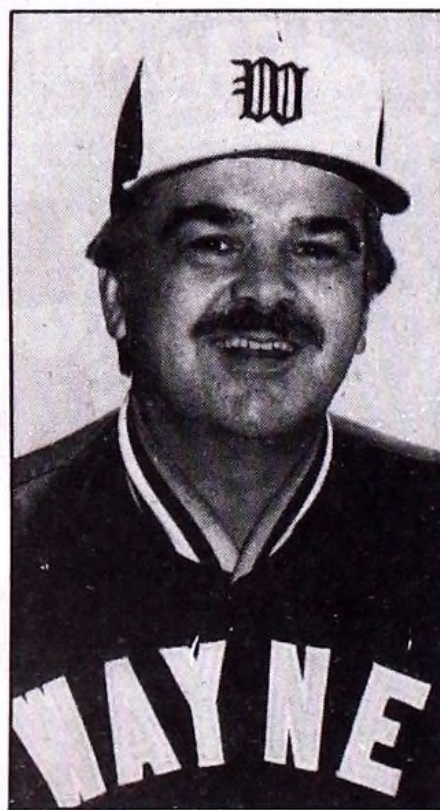

The second contest was hardly as dramatic.

Wayne posted seven runs in the third inning en route to a 12-1 pasting of the Eagles in five innings.

"The first game was legitimate," said Chronowski. "Overton kept us in that game and really perked us up. We showed a lot of grit coming back from four runs down."

"I really don't think the second game meant anything, and I was saying that to Romulus coach Don Foley's kids after the game."

Results aside, the best thing to come of the sweep may have

Arbogast crowned discus champ

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn High School student Shawn Arbogast was crowned the Class "A" regional discus king on Saturday at Redford Union.

Arbogast's toss of 156 feet, 11 inches gave him the crown and he the only Glenn qualifier for the Class A state finals to be conducted June 4 in Midland.

"Shawn did an exceptional job and should do well at state," said Glenn coach Jess Shough. "However, it isn't going to be easy. There's some outstanding talent in this state in that event."

Arbogast also qualified in the shot put where he placed third with a toss of 51 feet, 6 inches. Although only the top two finishers in each of the events advance to state, Arbogast's performance met the state qualifying standards.

A "false start" cost Todd Peterson a chance to compete in the finals.

Peterson, who was the leading qualifier going into the finals of the 110-meter high hurdles, came off the line early and was disqualified by the officials.

"That really hurt," said Shough. "He had the best qualifying time, and if he had not been disqualified, I'm certain he would have been among the top two finishers in the event."

Five-tenths of a second also cost Jason Olewnick a trip to Midland.

Olewnick missed qualifying been the fact that Chronowski was able to rest star righty Shannan Green. Green, a junior, leads the team in ERA (0.82) and strikeouts (73) didn't throw in either contest and should be well rested in time for the third and final meeting with Romulus Thursday.

The pre-district winner earns the right to face juggernaut John Glenn in the districts next Saturday, a task Chronowski isn't necessarily excited about. Chief among his concerns is the amount of rest his ace will have after pitching Tuesday.

"If we get to Glenn, Shannan will have only three days rest, and in high school that's not much," he says. "It's supposed to rain that day so I guess we'll be praying for rain."

Pitching aside, Chronowski says he's pleased with the run production he's been getting from the middle of the order. Green, Overton and junior catcher Aaron Cagnon have provided most of the power this season. Green, in addition to his pitching prowess, leads the team with a .429 average. In other action last week, the Zebras got started with a 7-0 win over Red Division leader Southgate last Monday. Green led the way for Wayne, issuing only three hits and striking out 10 en route to handing Southgate their first shutout of the season. Overton added three hits to the cause, including a two-run dinger in the fifth.

Wayne handed Southgate only their second conference loss of the season and only one player accounted for the loser's three hits. Chronowski said he was particularly impressed with Green's poise on the mound.

"It was Green's best pitching performance this year," he said. "He's had other games this season where he's put up good numbers, but never against this level of talent."

The win put the Zebras into contention for a possible first-place finish. Foley's young squad dropped a pair of games to Wayne Memorial last weekend, setting the stage for the pre-district match up with those same Zebras next Tuesday.

The first game was heart-breaker for the Eagles (7-17), who looked to have things under control going into the sixth. With two out and the bases empty, righty Chuck Sharrow walked the next two batters he faced. Foley pulled him for Steve O'Connor, who was beaten up by the Zebra bats. Romulus yielded four runs in the inning and proceeded to surrender the game-winner in the following stanza.

The nightcap was even uglier for Foley and company as they dropped a 12-1 game in five innings. Though the usually error-prone Eagles only had one error in the third, they still gave up seven runs to the Zebras, who coasted from there. Hurlers Dan Czajkowski and Eric Lambert were hit hard most of the night by Wayne.

"I would hope that the first game is more indicative of how we'll play them in the pre-districts," said Foley. "Some of these young kids are really growing up so hopefully, they'll make that next step." The team record and previous failures are now past, says Foley, who is now trying to convince his crew that they can still make some strides this season.

Before the pair of losses to Wayne, Romulus started the week with a pair of defeats at the hands of Milan last Monday. The Eagles posted a 10-run third inning in the first contest, but were outdueled 15-10. Jesse Flores racked up four RBIs in the game while Lambert added a homer and a pair of RBIs. Ryan Evans picked up the loss.

The doubleheader with Wayne ended a 14-day, 15-game stretch for the Eagles. They'll face New Boston Huron tomorrow before taking four days off to prepare for Wayne.

When the cloud of dust dissipates, John Glenn High School speedster Matt Howton will appear at third base with his 27th stolen base as Belleville infielder Jason Garland is too late with the tag. Howton's successful steal against the Tigers in the second game of a twin bill on Saturday gave the Rocket senior the record. Glenn went on to beat the visitors 7-6 in the first game and came back for the sweep, 17-7. Glenn carried a 19-3 overall record into the final week of regular play. collecting two hits and Derek Besco helped his twin brother with two singles in as many trips. It was no contest in the nightcap as the Rockets exploded for 10 hits in a 17-7 victory.

Reeder took the loss. He managed to collect a single and a double off of Rocket pitching. Truitt also had a pair of hits, including a double.

Glenn put an incredible 11 runs on the scoreboard in the second inning after the Tigers scored twice in the top of that frame. Cosby blasted a "monstrous" homer that cleared the 385-foot marker and the tennis nets in the fourth inning.

"It was one of the longest hits ball I have ever seen on this field," said Glenn coach Norm Hoenes, who has coached at Glenn for the past three decades. "That ball traveled at least 500 feet."

Cosby finished with two hits and three RBIs, while Bint also had a pair of hits and Morrison, the winning pitcher, also chipped in four RBIs with his two-for-two performance.

Behind Truitt's five-hitter, Belleville subdued Lincoln Park 6-1 as the Tiger hurler fanned 11 and walked one. He helped his own cause with two hits and three RBIs. Way and Jason Garland each had two hits, including doubles.

Komaromi came up with a two-run homer in the fourth inning that lifted the Tigers into a 5-1 lead.

Although losing pitcher Chad Smith struck out nine and walked three, he also gave up 10 hits.

"This was our best offensive game of the year," said Belleville coach John Bertz. "We hit the ball hard."

Unfortunately for the Tigers, they didn't do that against Wyandotte as Bruins' Dave Gudanowski checked his Mega Conference rivals on a two-hitter.

Belleville sprinter Curtis Lunsford, who won a gold and a pair of silvers on Saturday.

Franklin led the pack in the 100-meter dash as he crossed the finish line in 10.9. He returned for the 200-meter dash and again showed the way, covering the distance in a 22.3.

The Romulus senior then teamed with LaJuan Wilson, Tom Taylor, James Erquarhart to win the 800-meter relay in 1:29.1.

The Eagles set a new best in also winning the 1,600 meter relay. Glover picked a four-some that included Dominic Chaney, Ambrose Green, Larry Jackson and Wilson who toured the distance in 3:24.8. Romulus finished with a pair of silver medalists in the 400-meter relay and the 400-yard dash.

born club by 17 points (77-60). The Tigers served as hosts for the conference invitational.

Belleville amassed 108.6 points to surface atop of a field of 16 other competing teams at Redford Union. Romulus was a distant second with 59 points and Redford, nee, Detroit Catholic Central, had the third best team in the field with 49.

Also at Redford Union were: Detroit Cody (46), Dearborn Fordson (38), Dearborn (37), Plymouth-Salem (34), Westland John Glenn (28), Livonia Churchill (26), Plymouth-Canton (22), Northville (20), Livonia Stevenson (19), Redford Union (15), Wayne Memorial (11), Novi (8), Garden City

(4) and Livonia Franklin (2). Belleville received a sterling performance from Curtis Lunsford, a senior, who dominated the 400-meter dash, winning the event in a school-record shattering time of 49.5.

Lunsford also picked up a pair of silver medals after anchoring the Tiger 800-meter relay to a second-place (Romulus won it) See Related Story as Darnell Slaton, Ian Gold, Chris Cannon and Lunsford combined for a 8:30.0.

The Belleville sprinter also placed second to Phillip Franklin from Romulus in the 200-meter dash. Franklin's 22.3 was given the nod over Lunsford, who also turned in an identical time. In that event, Belleville also finished third with Cannon (22.9) and fourth with Gold (23.1).

for state when he finished third in the 800-meter run. His time was 2:00.25. The state qualifying time is 1:59.7.

The Rockets' 1,600-meter relay team also was denied an opportunity to see how it would fare at the state finals. Shannon Lott, Todd Peterson, Torrance Walker and Olewnick finished third in 3:27.9. The state qualifying time is 3:27.7.

The Westlanders will have a week to prepare for the annual Western Lakes Conference championships. The conference will be staged at Farmington High School on May 31. Plymouth-Salem and Farmington Harrison are considered the title favorites, however, Glenn, with a 5-2 record will have something to say about the title.

BUSINESS MAGNATE REVEALS KEYS TO SUCCESS BUILDING A BLOOMING ENTREPRENEURSHIP

I've loved, I've laughed and cried. I've had my fill, my share of losing. And now the tears subside. I find it all so amusing to think I did all that. And, may I say, not in a shy way, oh no, oh no not me, I did it my way.

Most of us have heard the famous words of old blue eyes Frank Sinatra, but Wilson Harrell, author/speaker/business consultant, has taken the meaning one step further.

Harrell has created a pathway of inspiration with the song for thousands of entrepreneurs who have taken the risks and become business leaders in a tough economy which has had many ups and downs.

The former publisher of INC. magazine, Harrell was inducted into the Entrepreneurial Hall of Fame for lifetime achievements.

His latest conquest is the book For Entrepreneurs Only which is expected to be an international best-seller. Entrepreneurs is for anyone who is currently involved in an entrepreneurship or considering this as a viable alternative to the doldrums of corporate containment, according to Harrell.

"I've been on a crusade for the last eight years to try to have America understand that there is a small group of people called entrepreneurs," Harrell said. "They consist of about one million people who have created about 9 percent of all jobs in America. This is very important because 4.2 million jobs have been lost in the U.S. since 1980.

"They are totally ignored by corporations. They are the only job creators, and they are being taxed heavily."

Entrepreneurs are the future, according to Harrell. While the common denominators among corporate giants today are "cutback," "down sizing," and "restructuring," the entrepreneurs of America have been growing by leaps and bounds.

"As long as job creators are being ignored, and we don't understand the significance of this group of people, we will have a recession," Harrell said.

Setbacks and obstacles which could make or break a business don't appear to affect the growth of the entrepreneur, according to Harrell. He said these individuals thrive on a challenge and learn to benefit from their mishaps.

"One place where the playing field is equal is owning your own company," Harrell said. "Then, the only one who can mistreat you is yourself."

Harrell is no stranger to confronting adversities. In the first chapter of his book he conveys a story about an experience he had during World War II.

Picked up by members of the French Underground, he was hidden from the Germans, buried in a cornfield with a hose stuck in his mouth so he could breathe.

He remembers, "For days I lived with a new and unwanted friend—stark, raving fear."

It was his determination to survive, however, which has built the entrepreneur within himself. He has experienced the thrill of incredible success such as buying a small bankrupt company, Formula 409 Inc. for $30,000, taking it national, attaining an incredible 55 percent share of the spray cleaner market and then selling it to Clorox six years later for $7 million.

Along the way, he fought and won an epic marketing battle with Procter and Gamble, forcing them to withdraw their competitive product "Chinch" from the market.

After selling Formula 409, Harrell purchased 60 food brokerage companies in 17 major markets making his company the largest in that business with sales exceeding $500 million dollars.

Can anyone become an entrepreneur?

See SUCCESS, page B-5

In chapter four of For Entrepreneurs Only, Harrell states that entrepreneurs are born. They are empowered with a massive dose of "hunter" genes that were passed down, through the eons, from their caveman ancestors. "Incredibly, these 'hunter' genes are also responsible for personality traits that are clinically diagnosed as Attention Deficit Disorder," Harrell said.

The following is a list of entrepreneur/hunter traits:

- Constantly monitoring their environment.
- Able to throw themselves into the chase at a moment's notice.
- Flexible, ready to change strategy quickly.
- Tireless; capable of sustained drives, but only when "hot on the trail."
- Results-oriented, acutely aware of whether the goal is getting closer.
- Visual/concrete thinker; see goal, even if can't verbally express it.
- Independent.
- Bored by mundane tasks; enjoy new ideas, excitement.
- Willing to take risks; face danger.
- No time for niceties when there are decisions to be made.

ENTREPRENEURIAL LIFE-LESSONS

- There is no way to prepare for entrepreneurial terror—there isn't a college course on this special hell. But, you are not alone and the rewards are worth it.
- There are two kinds of entrepreneurs: buccaneers and farmers. It's not important which one you are, but it's absolutely necessary that you know which one you are. The transition from buccaneer to farmer is difficult—few make it. Better to be a happy buccaneer than a sad farmer.
- When it's time to raise money, a normal state of being for an entrepreneur, never agree to give up control. You can keep control of your company without owning 51 percent. Just make sure no one else does.
- Four steps that could create the greatest "boom" in our history: Create "The Business Enterprise Administration" to guarantee loans for fast-growing companies, regardless of size; Eliminate or substantially reduce the tax on long-term gain for investments in entrepreneurial companies; Simplify requirements for going public; Set up a commission of entrepreneurs and listen to their advice; When a damper is put on entrepreneurs, a recession will occur. To create a boom, set entrepreneurs free.

Singers present pre-tour concert in Belleville

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER

Before they depart on a 15-day tour of England and Wales, the Wayne State University (WSU) Concert Chorale will stage a June 3 concert at the Moose Lodge 934 in Belleville.

One of the 35 members of the chorale is Belleville resident Becky Rocha.

"Our primary reason for the tour is to compete in the International Music Eisteddfod in North Wales," said Rocha, a WSU senior. "It is one of the largest fine arts competitions in the world, and it is a great opportunity to participate in it."

Rocha said the student chorale will tour through several cities in England and Wales, presenting one or two concerts each day in churches, cathedrals and fairs. The tour begins on June 19 and the group will return on July 13.

"The cost of the tour is $43,000, and each student is providing $500 toward the cost. We'll be using home stays instead of hotel accommodations to keep the costs down, and we're doing a series of fund-raising events to help with the costs," Rocha said. "We've had raffles and received donations, but we've still got a way to go."

"It will be great to show the community what we can do. The community has always supported me, and I'm very proud of the Belleville area."

Rocha noted that, in addition to the fund-raising aspects of the concert, she is enthused about bringing the concert to her home town.

"It will be great to show the community what we can do. The community has always supported me, and I'm very proud of the Belleville area. This is one way to show my appreciation," she said.

Rocha said the chorale will begin the concert with a few classical pieces and continue with some less formal numbers.

"The section in the middle of the concert will be a variety show with some barbershop and some do wop plus some instrumental," Rocha said. "We will conclude the concert with spirituals and some lighter music."

The Wayne State University senior has been singing most of her life, beginning at age 3 or 4.

"I sang in a kindergarten talent show, and other shows in elementary school plus children's theater," Rocha said. "When I attended South Middle School, I was very active in the music department, and sang with the Ambassadors and the Chorale at Belleville High School. All four years of high school, I participated in the music program, and also in state competitions."

With one semester left at WSU, the English literature and pre-law major plans to attend law school.

"I started as a music major, but decided to change my focus," Rocha said. "It's not that I'm denying my talent, but I have more than one passion. I also enjoy a good book and other intellectual stimulation. If I decide to teach, I'd rather teach literature than music."

The concert will be presented at the Moose Lodge 934, Huron River Drive, east of Belleville at 6:30 p.m. The musical event is part of a pancake supper which will be staged from 5 to 8 p.m. Cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and younger.

Donations will be accepted at the WSU Department of Music, Schaver Music Building, Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich. 48202.

"Entrepreneurs are born, not made, but the thirst for freedom is the spark that ignites," Harrell said. "The major thing is to identify yourself. What kind of person are you. You have to know what you are after and be sure of what you are really after."

He said the individuals who seem to fail at becoming entrepreneurs are those who are greedy.

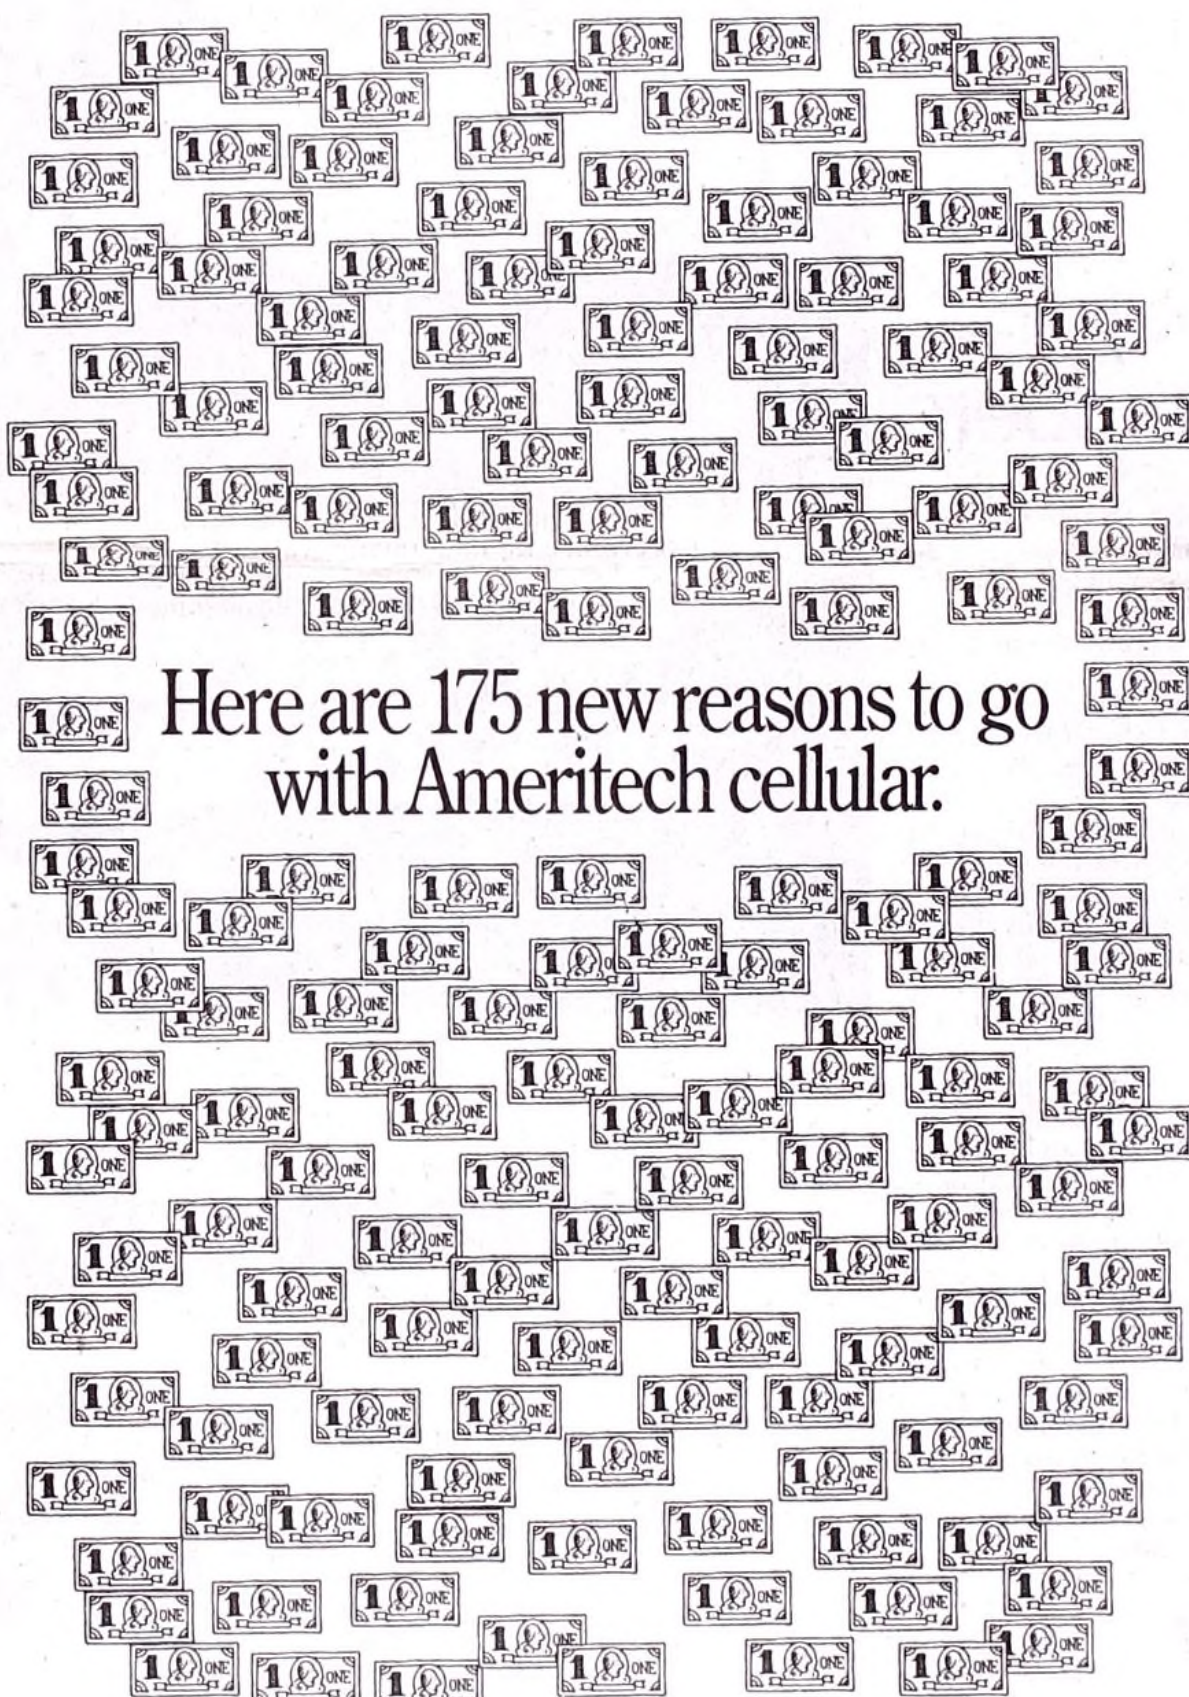

"If individuals go into an entrepreneurship with the one goal of making lots of money, then they will most likely fail," Harrell said. "Greed stinks up the place. It's the feeling that you want to do something well and want the freedom which makes an entrepreneurship sound.

"It's the freedom to have an idea, turn it into a business, seek excellence and care about your product and customers."

Prior to his success with Formula 409, Harrell lived in Europe for 10 years, where he founded Wilson Harrell & Co. with $140. This became the largest organization selling consumer products to the worldwide military commissaries and post exchanges, representing such companies as Kraft, General Mills, Nabisco, Minute Maid and Good Year.

Snubbed columnist cries 'foul' after exclusion from meeting

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Following the brouhaha about whether Detroit News columnist Pete Waldmeir would be included in the Wayne County Community College (WCCC) Presidential Search Committee, the newspaper initiated legal action to open the meetings to the public.

According to WCCC Trustee Ted Scott, who heads the committee, "nothing improper happened, and there was no intention of impropriety."

Apparently, the columnist, who is a long-time critic of the college, was nominated to the committee, but never officially placed on it. When he arrived at the meeting last week, the columnist was not admitted.

WCCC Board Chairperson Denise Wellons-Glover sought to quiet the controversy at a press conference.

"The college is in the midst of a transition given the resignation of Dr. Cortada. As Dr. Cortada moves on, we also must move proactively and in the spirit of cooperation to recruit and select the next president of this institution," Wellons-Glover said.

Dr. Rafael Cortada resigned from his post, and has taken a similar position in Ohio.

Wellons-Glover said she did not remove the name of one controversial nominee (Waldmeir) from the committee list, but said she would take their concerns under advisement.

"Over the past two days, concerns have been raised in the press regarding the search committee, the process being following and the possible exclusion of the public from this important deliberation of selecting a president," said Wellons-Glover earlier this week. "As established, this mand respect. Applications must be submitted to the search committee by June 20. committee's sole function is to screen initial applicants for the position of president. The board did not delegate authority to the committee to interview of make final determination on who would be candidates for the position.

"The charge to the committee is to recommend 10 fully qualified candidates to the board of trustees. All materials used by the committee, including the resumes of all candidates, will be kept in the board office and available for review by all board members," she said. "After presentation of the committee's recommendation, the board will constitute the selection committee and make the determination as to who will be interviewed. It is at this point that the public will have the opportunity to observe and participate in the interview process and the discussion leading to the naming of the next president."

Wellons-Glover concluded, "There are no secret deals. I have no hidden agenda. Mine is a very open and direct one - to get te best leadership for this college."

The advertisement for president lists the following qualifications: an earned doctorate degree or professional degree with administrative experience preferred; demonstrated awareness of an commitment to the community college philosophy and mission; a leadership style which is visionary, open, flexible, accessible and collegial; experience in creating coalitions, building consensus and uniting disparate factions; evidence of a positive working relationship with a board of trustees, preferably one that is elected, and personal qualities which com-

In addition to Scott and Wellons-Glover, the Presidential Search Committee includes a third member of the WCCC board of trustees, Ollie McKinney Jr. Other members are Inkster Councilman Hilliard Hampton; Samir Mashni, an attorney and member of the Westland Zoning Board of Appeals; Juanita Lynch, New De-

New church group seeking area members

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Based on an age-old belief and feeling of humanity, a group of people are hoping to reach out to Canton Township residents and offer them a sense of fulfillment.

Members of The Christian and Missionary Alliance (CMA) are average people preparing to offer local residents the opportunity to find Christ. A Protestant denomination, disciples believe in the Bible and seek to live by it.

According to Patrick Jarrett, pastor, "We want to begin a new church in Canton Township because we find it to be a fast growing community. Our purpose is not to move people from one church to another, we're trying to reach people who are not attending church at all."

Jarrett cited a national finding showing that 60-percent of the population in every community across the country is "unchurched", or not attending any church.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance boasts two million members in 10,000 churches worldwide, several in Michigan.

"We have churches in Dearborn, Beverly Hills, Detroit and Sterling Heights just to name a few," said Jarrett. "We support 1400 missionaries in 54 countries."

The organization began in 1887 when Alliance founder Dr. A.B. Simpson left a New York City Presbyterian pulpit to reach out to neglected people. Since then, an alliance of evangelical believers joined together.

A informational meeting was held at Canton Township Hall May 18 for individuals to learn more about the organization. Jarrett encouraged anyone who was unable to attend that meeting to contact him at (313) 677-8555 or (313) 434-6619.

"Our children go to the same schools. We shop at the same stores...but more importantly, we share the same concern for health, happiness and well-being for ourselves and those we love," the group publicity flyer states.

Racers hope for better luck Sunday

Connie Kalitta's bid to win three National Hot Rod Association events in a row ended Sunday in the first round of the Meguiar's Mid-South Nationals.

The Belleville area business owner recorded a foul start in his race against Mike Dunn of Pennsylvania. The 56-year-old Kalitta maintains his lead in the Winston Top Fuel Championship points.

Kalitta's son, Scott, 32, of Belleville, also went out in the first round of competition against the current champion. In second place in points at the start of the event, Scott Kalitta is now in the number four position.

The next event for the American Airways team is next weekend at the Mopar Nationals in Englishtown, N.J. Qualifying will take place on Friday and Saturday with final eliminations at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Pre-schoolers need books

With the cooperative book drive by Associated Newspapers and the Inkster Literacy Council coming to a close, there is concern that there may not be enough books for the 300 youngsters enrolled in the Head Start program.

"Our goal is to give each child a book to read during the summer, but so far our collection has fallen short of the 300 books needed, said Selinia Robinson, program coordinator. "We will be collecting books for pre-schoolers and early elementary students at the newspaper office, 35540 Michigan Ave., near Wayne Road, through June 1, and we hope to reach our goal by then."

Books can be brought to the office during regular business hours.

The Long And Short Of Making More On Your Money, Whatever Your Economic Outlook.

Rising Rate CD For The Long Term.

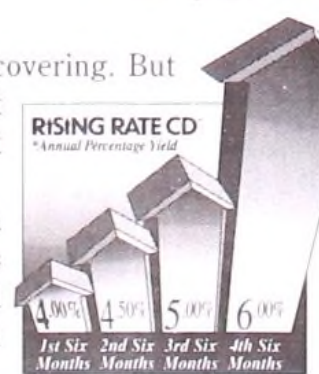

FirstRate Fund For The Short Term.

The economy is recovering. But even the experts can't agree on what interest rates will do.

So First of America has two shrewd ways for you to earn a great rate. No matter what your strategy.

The long view.
If you think rates will drop or stay flat, you should go with a longer-term deposit and get a rate guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. The Rising Rate CD.SM

It starts at 4.00% APY. And you'll end up earning 6.00% APY for the final term.* During the initial two-year term, you can withdraw part or all of your money in the first ten days after every six-month interval without penalty. All it takes to get started is a $1000 deposit.

Plus, you can get a no service charge personal checking account.

The short view.
If you predict rates will keep going up this year, deposit short term in the FirstRate Fund.SM The interest rate on balances of $10,000 or more is based on the 91-day Treasury Bill. So if the T-Bill goes up quickly, you'll continue to benefit from it.

An opening deposit of $10,000 is required. It's a respectable rate of return plus liquidity in these uncertain times. Plus you can get a no service charge personal checking account.

Of course, your deposits are FDIC insured up to $100,000 per depositor.

Call 1-800-443-5465 or visit any of the 150 offices in Southeast Michigan.

Because no matter what your point of view, you can't go wrong banking with us.

Cruising in high style

By CRAIG GARRETT
Special Writer

They're called Texas Cadillacs down south. Up here in Michigan the GMC Suburban is called unavailable and for good reason: No competition means a waiting list at the dealer.

The 1994 version of the classic nine-passenger utility vehicle maintains its workhorse reputation, but with a trimmer waistline and tighter buns, plus an interior and handling package rivaling its Cadillac brethren.

As late as the 1980s, Suburban featured a boxy chassis with pillared rear doors that hindered vision and speed loading. Revised in 1992, Suburban today boasts an aerodynamic shell on a Sierra platform with a single tinted window for easier access to 145.9 cubic feet of cargo space, or 47.5 cubic feet with rear seats fastened down. Plus parking drills are a breeze.

Standard power features the Chevy 350 (5.7L) with plenty of towing capacity, or the optional big-block 454 cu. in. (7.4L) gasoline powered V-8 for hauling road condominiums and freight liners. The $30,297 Quicksilver Suburban we tested was plenty capable with the 5.7L 2 WD package. You might want something right in the middle for power and mileage: The surprisingly agile 6.5L (395-cubic-inch) turbo diesel offers added juice if you don't mind diesel knocking.

Also standard is the ultra-smooth Hydra-matic 4L60-E transmission with the fourth-gear overdrive for added mileage and road comfort. Fully independent coil spring front suspension on the 2WD version and the independent front suspension with added torsion bars on the 4WD Suburban provide a ride not found just a couple of years ago. High-speed control would seem like an obvious problem on the 8,500-pound vehicle, especially on tough backroads, but Suburban plowed along in fine fashion (almost like designers knew what they were doing. Almost.)

Cupholders need to be wider for larger road containers and the GM stereo sounded slightly tinny, but overall Suburban, with added door beam security and exterior refinements, deserves its Texas Cadillac waiting list reputation as the ultimate family and touring vehicle. Bar none.

Inkster man faces trial for assault

A Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court judge decided May 20 that there is enough evidence for a jury trial involving an Inkster man who is suspected of allegedly sexually assaulting a 16-year-old Westland girl near the railroad tracks in Wayne May 22, 1993.

A Nov. 2 jury trial has been scheduled for Freddie D. Triplett, 30. He was arraigned in an out county court in March, and a $50,000 cash bond was set, according to Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews.

Triplett is charged with two counts of assault with intent to murder and first-degree criminal sexual conduct, according to Drews.

"The victim was beaten very badly, left to die," Drews said.

The incident occurred near Swanson Street and Merriman Road at approximately 9 p.m., according to Drews. The teenager was visiting her grandmother that day.

If Triplett is found guilty of assault with intent to murder and first-degree criminal sexual conduct, he could receive up to life in prison.

Sentencing set for Westland man

A Westland man charged with felonious assault was found guilty May 23 before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Michael Sapala.

Joseph Wiper, 18, was involved in an assault incident in the Farmer Jack parking lot in Wayne 2 a.m. March 18. He was allegedly assisted by Westland resident Frank D. Bell who received two years probation May 6 on charges of felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon.

A June 21 sentencing has been set for Wiper before Sapala. The incident was gang related, according to Wayne Police Lt. Mel Drews.

"The victim and his friends were in the grocery store shopping when an argument took place," Drews said. "The argument continued outside, and at that point, a gun was pulled on the victim. No injuries occurred."

Both defendants were arraigned March 19, and a $2,500 cash bond was set for each.

Driver plows into group of children, 4 injured

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster police said on Thursday that they will seek a warrant charging a 58-year-old resident with leaving the scene of an injury accident after the suspect plowed his vehicle into a group of children playing on a sidewalk.

Police refused to identify the suspect until he is formally charged. They expect that a warrant will be issued later this week, according to Det. Lee Crump, of the Inkster Police Department.

Injured in the accident were: Almonzo Brown, 11, who resides in the 29000 block of Hazelwood; Leonard Wyne, Leonard Wyne, 13, also of Hazelwood and David Tabb, 13.

One child left the scene with his parents before police arrived at the scene. His parents took him to an area hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Two other children, playing in the group, also narrowly missed being struck by the vehicle, according to witnesses.

"This guy must have been out of his mind. He almost killed someone."

witness

One of the victims, Brown, was rushed to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne where he was treated for a back injury and lacerations. According to a hospital spokesperson, Brown was treated and released the same day.

Wyne's father who rushed to the accident scene told police that his son didn't need medical attention.

Police said that the driver of the vehicle left the street around 6:30 p.m. and drove over the curb on the southeast corner of Hazelwood and Western streets where the children were gathered on their bikes. A witness said that after the driver struck the group of children he glanced back but then continued to drive away from the scene.

A witness standing on a nearby porch leaped into his vehicle and gave pursuit. He followed the suspect to the Beech Daly and Penn Street area where he managed to jot down the suspect's license number.

The witnesses gave the information to police. "This guy must have been out of his mind. He almost killed someone," the witness said. "All he did was turn around and look at those kids and smile."

According to a police report, the suspect admitted he had been drinking. He also said that he was surprised when they told him that he had run down some children.

"We have presented the prosecutor's office all of the information that we have gathered from the investigation," said Crump. "We're waiting to see what they are going to charge this guy with."

Leaving the scene of an injury accident is a felony that is punishable by 10 years in prison upon conviction.

Angel needed Woman fights to keep her home

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Mary Danielian is wondering where her guardian angel is.

Fate, she believes, is dealing her some low blows, and she is desperately in need of help or she may lose her house.

The 73-year-old Inkster woman, who is caring for her three diabetic brothers in their modest house on Arcola Street, was notified by the city through an eviction order that her house has been sold because of delinquent taxes and that she and her brothers must vacate the premises.

When Danielian complained to the city and the lawmakers that she had, indeed, paid her taxes, they went behind closed doors with their attorney, Milt Spokojny, and returned to inform her that the eviction would stand.

"I do not know what I am going to do," said Danielian, who has lived in the Inkster house for more than three decades. "I am a 73-year-old woman who is caring for sick brothers. Where am I to go? What are they going to do? We want to stay here."

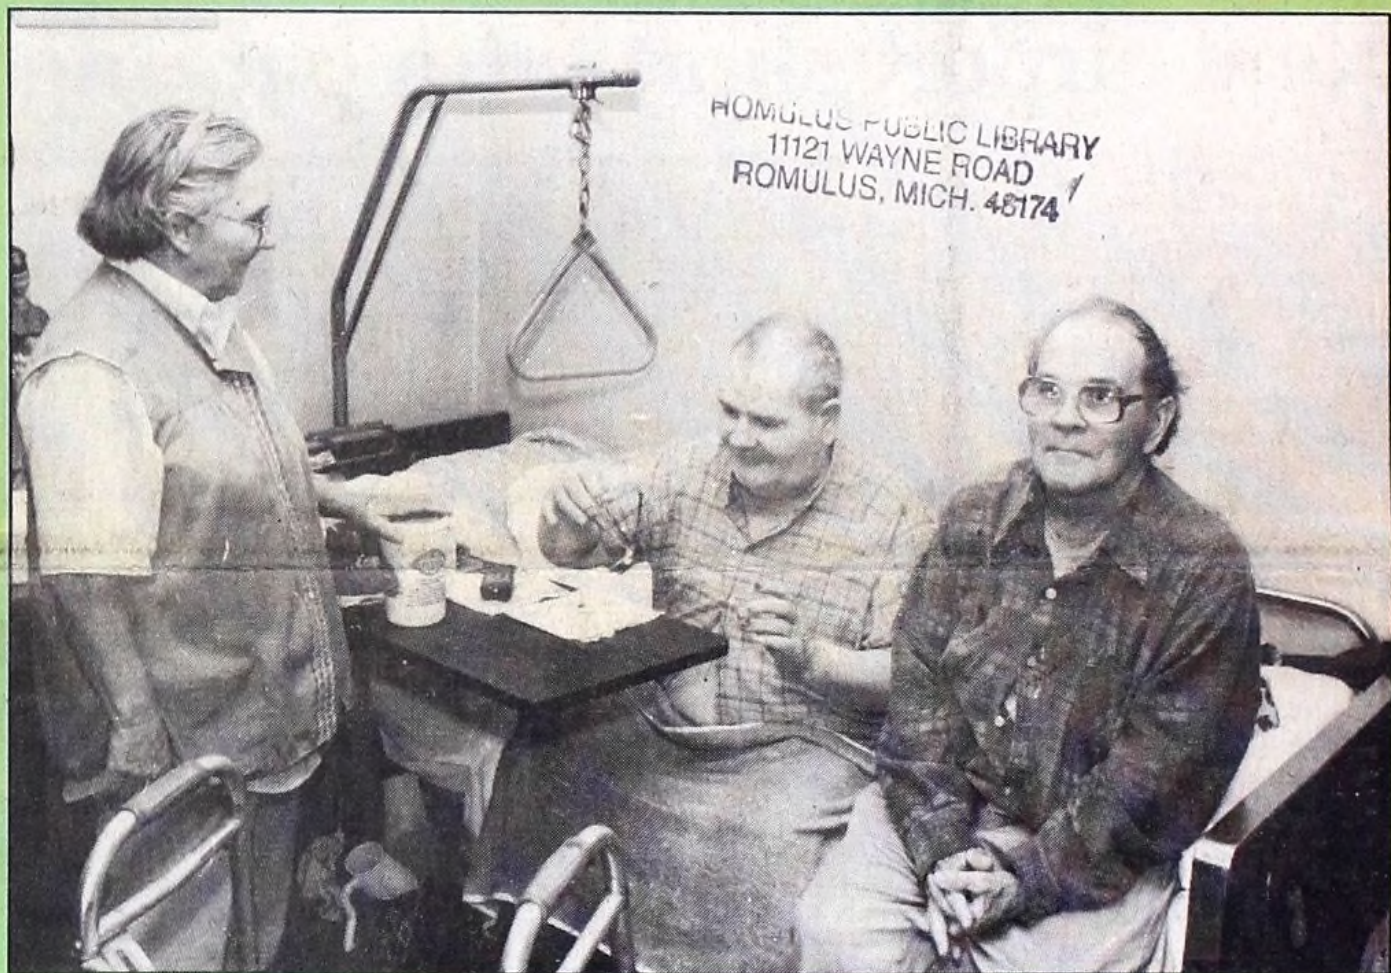

Danielian is caring for her brothers, Albert, 70, Anthony, 69, and Howard, 67, who have diabetes in the home located at 378 Arcola.

Danielian was widowed in 1984 when her husband, John, a World War II veteran, died. She said her problems apparently began in that year. According to city records, property taxes were not paid in 1984 and in the subsequent years of 1985 and 1986.

Danielian said as soon as she was informed her taxes were delinquent, she went to the city to pay them. However, she discovered that the city wouldn't accept the taxes because they were delinquent and that she had to pay them at Wayne County.

She said that she did. In the meantime, the city received the land through the state and placed the parcel of land up for sale, which was purchased. Through Kenneth Boyer, director of Human Resources Development Corporation, an agency which helps seniors who find them-

The family members live together at their home on Arcola Street. Danielian is in need of assistance so she and her brothers can remain in her home. She has informed city and county officials that she paid the delinquent taxes on her house, however, the city has received the land from the county, and she has been informed that her property has already been sold. Romulus man receives prison sentence for murder

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A Romulus man will spend the next 25 to 50 years of his life in prison as punishment for the killing of a Wayne resident.

William Mario Johnson, 25, was found guilty of second-degree murder in the death of Marvin Steiner. Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Thomas Jackson sentenced Johnson to the lengthy prison term on May 23.

Mr. Steiner's body was found wrapped in a mattress on Belle Isle Sept. 4. He was clothed, but had no identification, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"This incident occurred approximately in the mid-morning hours of Sept. 3," Drews said. "Mr. Steiner was strangled in his own home in Wayne. He was then transported to Belle Isle and left there without any identification."

A missing persons report was filed in Wayne after police received information about a body being found on Belle Isle. Drews said police were able to identify the victim when his brother called to report him missing.

Johnson was arraigned Sept. 12 in an out county court. Drews said the defendant is a habitual criminal. During the Sept. 22 examination before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold, prosecuting attorney Charles Sellers informed Archbold that Robert Vass found the corpse.

Sellers also stated that a dentist was able to match teeth marks found on the defendant to the dead man. He read part of the police interrogation of the defendant conducted Sept. 19, 1993 by Wayne police Sgt. Chris Johnson at the Wayne Police Department.

"I was behind him and had him in a headlock," Sellers read. "I wrapped a fan cord two times around his neck. I saw his head turning blue. I unwrapped it right away."

From the statement, Sellers informed Archbold that an argument allegedly occurred outside the Steiner home in Wayne. When the victim went inside his house, Johnson followed, according to the statement.

Wayne Police Chief John Colligan praised the expedient efforts of his investigative department.

"This was one of the most rough and thorough investigations we have ever had," Colligan said. "It was done in a very expedient manner due to the superb efforts of Sgt. Chris Johnson, Sgt. Robert McIntyre and Lt. Mel Drews."

Colligan also applauded the efforts of the Detroit Police Crime Evidence Department which assisted in the case.

Start saving when you're young - invest your money wisely - avoid debt and always be ready for financial emergencies

All these - and more - are words to the wise from Uncle Bob, the host of a nationally syndicated radio program and author of Hardcastle's Money Talk.

The author, Robert B. Hardcastle, a graduate of Southern Illinois University, began his career in the investment field in 1964. He is currently a financial planner, president of his own company, host of a popular radio program, Money Talk, and the author of a new book on money management.

"For a long time, people have been asking me to write a book, and they said they wanted a book that was fun to read," Hardcastle said. "Most people have books with financial advice on their bookshelves, but they don't read them, because they're so dull. By putting the advice in a story form, I think the book is fun to read as well as being helpful and providing good, sound advice."

In his book, Hardcastle dispenses his financial wisdom in a palatable form in his role as Uncle Bob dealing with family members - Dan and Denise Debt, Scott Youth, Wilma Widow, Benjamin Bigtimer and Larry Lost. Obviously, with a family such as this, the services of Uncle Bob are always on call.

"It's never too early for young people to start saving," said Hardcastle, who recommends that youngsters mow lawns, perform clean-up chores or other work to earn money, and then systematically set some aside or the "Kids can invest their money in mutual funds. Some mutual fund investments are as little as $50 a month, which is certainly attainable with a part-time job," Hardcastle said. "Once they see their money growing, it becomes like a game. They can check the newspapers to see how their funds are performing."

Hardcastle noted that many banks discourage small accounts because of their minimum required balances and service charges, but some banks have special accounts for youngsters.

"Shop around at the local banks, and you'll find one where your child can open a small account," Hardcastle said.

One of the biggest traps leading to financial problems is the proliferation of credit

Money Talk Tips from Hardcastle

For 20-something starting out

- Buy only what you can afford to pay for in cash.
- Aim to pay off debts ahead of schedule.
- Be a slow and steady saver.
- Find an investment, invest accumulated savings and add earnings to investment - let it grow.

For over-extended credit buyers

- Assess debt ratio.
- Plan a budget to pay off credit card debts.
- Sell assets, if necessary, and keep spending to the essentials.
- Pay for everything in cash.
- Take advantage of corporate retirement and life insurance programs to build up tax-deferred savings.

For retirees to boost buying power

- Think long-term.
- Keep a checklist of expenses up to date.
- Strive to increase principal income to stay ahead of inflation.
- Diversify investments.
- Explore viable investment options - stock, unit trusts, mutual funds, variable annuities.

cards, according to the author.

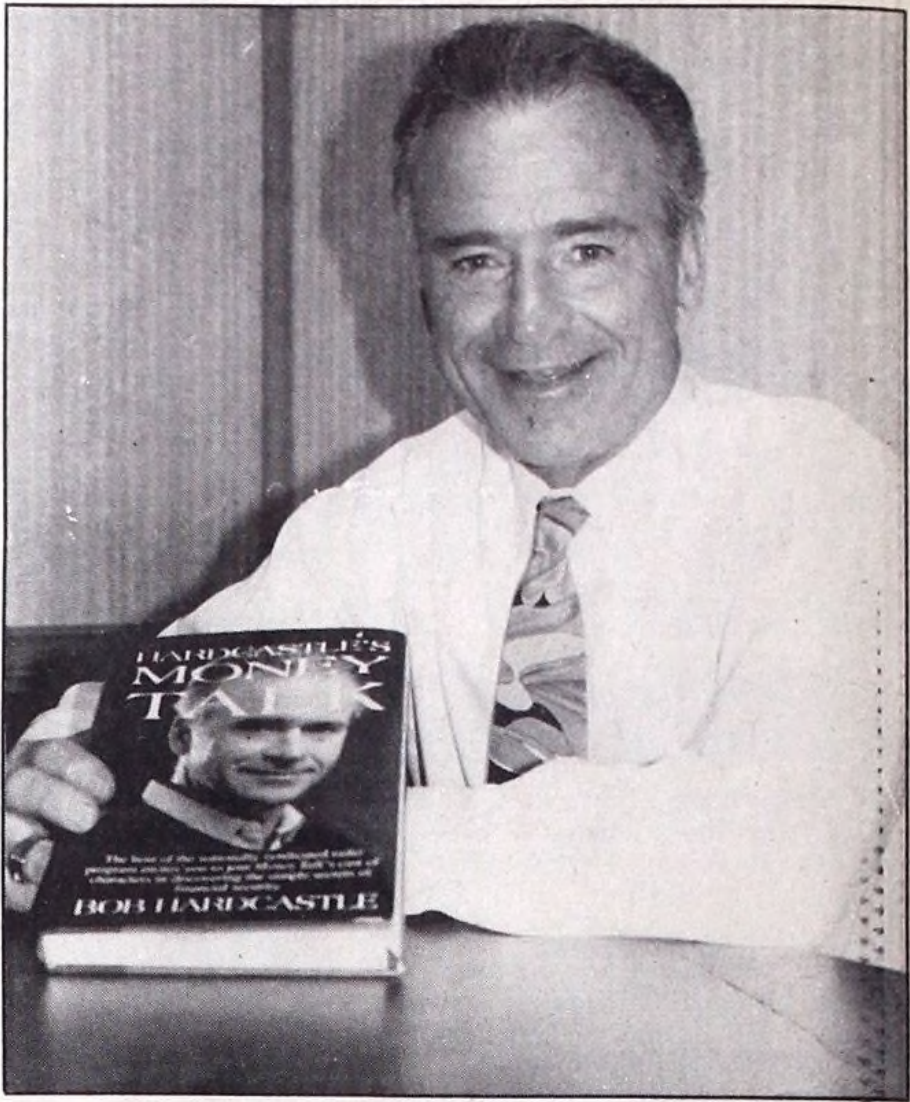

Just as he told Dan and Denise Debt, "overspending on credit cards can lead to financial disaster."

Every one knows someone like Dan and Denise Debt - their credit cards maxed out, unable to resist purchasing anything they desire and little more than one pay check away from bankruptcy.

Hardcastle sees society as being "brainwashed" by advertisements that tell us that we can have it all - just by using a piece of plastic.

"People want instant gratification. Young couples want to have everything that their mothers and dads have, and they want it right away," Hard-castle said.

In his book, Uncle Bob guides the couple away from new expenditures and suggests ways to pay off their debts, including selling many of their "toys."

The item in their budget, however, the Debts were urged to keep.

Uncle Bob advises people to keep their health insurance. A disaster, which could plunge them into bankruptcy, could occur if one of the Debts has an unexpected illness or hospitalization that cost $10,000 or $20,000.

Hardcastle takes on the problems of his family - those that faithfully mirror many of our own financial concerns - and offers sound advice so that by the final page you, too, may be able to bring your finances into shape, and offer some "Uncle Bob-like" advice yourself.

New airport short-term parking opens, 150 slots available

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A new short-term parking lot containing 150 vehicle slots to serve the Smith Terminal at Detroit Metro Airport has opened.

"Our purpose is to recreate nearby parking for the Smith Terminal, which has temporarily be eliminated by demolishing and restructuring the parking deck," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara.

"We have been inconveniencing our customers with construction barricades and odd directions throughout the past two years, but when this entire project is complete, Detroit Metro will feature one of the finest airport parking decks in North America," McNamara said.

The entrance to the new 150-space lot is accessible from the left lane of lower Rogell Drive between the Marriott Hotel and Smith Terminal.

The new lot was created because the existing 96-space short term lot, just past the Smith Terminal frequently fills up, particularly at peak times.

Airport Director Robert Braun said "150 spaces doesn't sound like much, but short term lots turn over every few hours so the new lot will serve thousands of customers."

Short term parking is convenient for airport visitors, both the meeters and the greeters, as well as those who conduct brief business meetings at the airport, Braun said, but since it has hourly rates it can get expensive for lengthy stays.

Short-term parking is not recommended for long-term or overnight parking.

Three weeks ago, Wayne County opened a new automated pedestrian bridge connecting the completed portion of the parking deck to the Davey Terminal.

When the entire project is complete by the end of the year, moving walkways will transport deck customers to three pedestrian bridges.

An express vehicle ramp will speed motorists to the exit plaza and a fly-over ramp will allow vehicle access to the third level of the deck from upper Rogell Drive.

Examination scheduled for area man in death of 86-year-old man

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

A local man could spend many years in the state penitentiary if found guilty of the two felony counts against him.

Thomas William Skudlarek was bond over to Detroit Recorder's Court by Judge Charles Bokos of the 18th District Court for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (third offense) and leaving the scene of an injury accident during the morning hours of March 11.

The prosecuting attorney subpoenaed eight witnesses to establish a premise that an accident occurred in the area of Wayne and Hunter Roads at 8:45 a.m., and the intoxicated driver left the accident scene. The victim died as a result of the collision.

According to a 19-year-old witness, a maroon and gray van attempted to brake before striking the light-colored Tempo in the area of the gas tank, but to no avail.

"The car was turning into the parking lot of Big Boy's Restaurant," said the waitress. "After I heard the crash, I started heading toward the car because the old man looked hurt."

As the girl proceeded toward the injured driver, later identified as 86-year-old Stanley Pitera, the van fled west on Hunter street, turning left at the first stop sign, she testified. She remained with the man until Westland authorities arrived on the scene, she stated.

Local rescue personnel transported Pitera to Garden

City Hospital for head and leg injuries while police officers searched for the driver of the van. A trail of radiator fluid led authorities to a residence on Comanche Street.

Officers located a van matching the description of the vehicle in question parked in the driveway of the residence, half-way up the driveway parked in front of another van.

"I could see a large van from the street," said officer Thomas Hisong, "and I later saw front-end damage on the vehicle."

As the prosecuting attorney and Westland Police Department worked to build a case against Skudlarek, doctors worked to decrease the swelling around Pitera's brain. The man died March 15, selves in the same situation that Danielian is in today, Danielian was able to find an attorney to help untangle the legal web.

"Mrs. Danielian's situation is not unique," said attorney David Scott. "We have seniors, who for one reason or other do not respond to the letters they get from their cities and find themselves in very precarious situations when it comes to paying their taxes. They need help."

"Unfortunately, this is only the tip of the iceberg. There are so many others in the same situation. We must somehow try to get the information out to these people."

Scott said that he has filed an appeal with the Michigan Court of Appeals to hear Danielian's case after the Circuit Court and the 22nd District Court (Inkster) refused to rehear the case. The justices have issued a "stay" which will allow Danielian and her brothers to remain in the house until a legal decision is handed down from the Appeals Court.

"We have made this emergency request for them (the justices) to render their decision," Scott continued. "What the appeals court may do is to return this thing back to the Circuit or the 22nd District Court."

"Obviously, we feel that an injustice has been committed and that Mrs. Danielian and her brothers have made an honest attempt to pay their taxes. They should not be penalized because they are seniors."

Danielian's friends and neighbors have rallied around her and offered support.

"It's very sad when you see people like Mary and her brothers forced out of their home because of a misunderstanding," said Margaret Calles, a longtime friend of the Danielians. "This should not have gotten this far."

Spokojny said that the city received the (Danielian) property from the state because of delinquent taxes.

"We got the property because of back taxes," Spokojny said. "The city's hands are clean. If she has a quarrel it should be with the county. Not with us because we (the city) can't accept delinquent taxes - only the county can."

The Appeals Court has not set a date to hear the Danielian complaint.

Arraignment set on assault of local girl in limousine

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

A 42-year-old Plymouth man could be facing 15 years imprisonment if convicted of charges of coercing a 17-year-old girl into sexual activity in the back of a limousine, police said.

According to girl's mother, she investigated several companies prior to renting a limousine for her daughter and friends from a local limousine service owned by the accused, Robert Jules Frates. The woman was especially impressed with the company ban on alcohol to minors during rented time, she said.

The contract indicated a provision that the girl be home at 2:30 a.m., so when 3 a.m. arrived and her daughter had not appeared, the mother said she called Frates who promised to have the girl home within the hour.

When the mother went out to meet the vehicle at the curb nearly two hours later, she was surprised to find the owner of the company in the back seat with her half-clothed daughter, reeking of alcohol and marijuana, she told police.

The woman explained to the officer she instructed her daughter to leave the vehicle and then began shouting at Frates, who instructed the chauffeur to drive off. The car pulled away before the girl could retrieve her belongings from the back seat, the mother said.

The girl entered the house and lost consciousness in her bedroom while the mother contacted Canton Township Police. When police officers woke the girl 20 minutes later, she told them she and her friends had gone to a club in Detroit. The driver began dropping friends off directly after leaving the dance club, she said, leaving her last.

After dropping off the last friend in Novi at 3:30 a.m., the girl said Frates got into the back with her, put up the middle partition and began kissing her.

Police are currently investigating the allegation that Frates supplied the girl with alcohol. It is possible the girl's friends, all over 21, bought the liquor, police said.

Local police radioed surrounding communities, asking that the limousine be stopped on sight. Plymouth police located the vehicle minutes later, identified both the driver and owner, and retrieved the girl's belongings from the back seat.

Frates was released from custody following his arraignment earlier this month and posting of a $5,000 personal bond. He will appear in Detroit Recorder's Court to be arraigned on the information June 10.

Romulus man receives probation for tax evasion

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A retired Romulus 34th District Court administrator, who recently pleaded guilty to one count of state tax evasion, was sentenced to two years probation May 20 by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Dalton A. Roberson.

Charles E. Walls, who was 34th District Court administrator from 1969 to 1987, also agreed to make restitution of the $11,000 in state taxes he failed to pay in 1987 as well as pay interest and fines in the case.

Walls could have been fined $5,000 and been imprisoned for five years.

The arrest of the court administrator followed an intensive audit of 34th District Court and criminal investigation by the State Attorney General's office.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley reported last month that Walls was apparently performing bookkeeping services for the court while employed as a court administrator, and he failed to report the income on his Michigan income tax returns.

Walls' successor, Nancy Schuette, also was arrested by Kelley's agents following the audit and criminal investigation. She was charged with three counts of embezzlement that resulted in the shortage of $270,000 in court funds, Kelley said.

Schuette is facing a June 20 hearing on the charges before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold in Wayne.

Unique approach Gold Tones involve audience

"The David Copperfields of Music" is the term Mike Brown likes to describe his disc-jockey operation, the Gold Tones.

Brown said, "It's all an illusion. Folks wanted more than just music. They wanted more entertainment."

The group began using wooden guitars and hats, according to Brown.

"We found out people went crazy for the entertainment and it just evolved," Brown said.

Today the Gold Tones lip sync and pantomime instruments as they perform to recorded music. Although the Gold Tones make it clear to clients that they aren't really singing or playing the instruments, Brown said many people in the audience don't realize the music is recorded.

The entertainer works with his wife, Debbie, and assistants-usually in groups of three, although there are sometimes as many as seven members.

A former auto worker and insurance salesperson, Brown started the Gold Tones as a part-time business 15 years ago. For the last decade, the Browns have worked full time as disc jockeys.

"I had a record collection when I was in school," Brown said. "I always dreamed of being in a band. I was the oldest of eight kids, so in high school, I didn't have time for anything but school and work. I didn't play an instrument."

After working as a disc jockey at a benefit, Brown said he realized what could be done with recorded music, compared to live bands which take breaks throughout a function.

Sparks ignites love for music

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

Whether an avid musician or a novice just developing an appreciation for the sound of music, a business in Wayne has something to "spark" your interest.

Sparks Music, 35630 West Michigan Ave., houses sheet music, pianos, organs, compact discs, tapes, classical music, guitars and drum paraphernalia.

"We've diversified a lot since 1989," said owner Tim Coshier. "We have all the materials a student would need to learn the piano, organ or guitar. We offer piano, organ and keyboard lessons."

Sparks offers an eight-week music program where students can learn how to play various music compositions from classical to popular.

"Most everything in terms of lessons are done through the Wayne-Westland Schools, however, we do take anyone who has an interest in music," Coshier said.

If customers can't find a certain music booklet or brand of piano at the store, Sparks can special order most anything.

"We aim to please," Coshier said. "All the customer have to do is ask, and we'll do our best to find what they need."

Sparks is open noon to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday. To inquire about music lessons call 729-0230.

Mail Boxes offers efficient, quality service

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Many people have different reasons for becoming an entrepreneur - to live the American dream, to be your own boss, or to make more money, - but one local man was so impressed with the services he received at Mail Boxes Etc., that he believed everyone should benefit and purchased the franchise.

Paul Bailey bought the shop, at 42015 Ford Road in the F&M Center in Canton Township, two months ago and things are going great.

"Business has been very brisk," he said. "Big or small, we ship it all."

But Mail Boxes Etc. does more than ship packages, he said. "We are a post office plus."

Open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., Bailey sees an average of between 75 and 100 people daily. Customers come in to make copies, use the word processor at the shop, send overnight or international mail, fax documents, have items notarized or purchase office supplies.

In addition, Mail Boxes Etc. offers printing services, a message service and can forward mail to traveling clients.

"People come here because we can properly prepare items for shipping (according to United Parcel Service regulations) and track items more carefully," said the owner. "We can do a number of things in one place, reducing the number of stops our clients must make."

Bailey referred to a woman who wanted to send a birthday package to Germany, but forgot to buy a card.

"She bought the card, the shipping supplies and sent it all from here instead of going to three different places," he said.

Currently collecting the mail for 115 small business, the newest service offered by Mail Boxes Etc. appeals to individuals or companies who wish to ship heavy items.

"We can now ship items over 400 pounds by freight," he said, "and it's less expensive than hiring a moving company."

Mail Boxes Etc. also acts as a distribution center for some businesses.

"We have clients who live in different states, but have their packages shipped here," said Bailey. "We can break it down for them and ship the individual items where they need to go."

Bailey offers all these services at "very competitive prices." For more information, or to reserve a mail box call 981-8200.

The Gold Tones started out with records, but they have converted to compact discs (CDs) in recent years. They have about 850 CDs supplemented by 150 tapes which they take to each performance.

"If we have free reign, we play some big bands, 60s, 70', 80s and some 90s," Brown said. "We have some (alternative) and country.

Other than rap and heavy metal, there is not too much we don't carry."

What's important to the unique band is reading the crowd and playing the music they want to hear, according to Brown.

His wife agreed.

"If they ask for Pearl Jam, we play alternative," she said. "We are getting into teaching line dancing and we notice people like the attention."

Sportsway entertainment facility promotes quality time with family

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

While these days, it is often difficult to find an entire family together for more than five minutes at a time, one local business is making an effort to promote quality family time.

Bill McQueen, Jr., manager of Sportsway, said "It's family fun for everyone at a family low cost."

Featuring two 18-hole miniature golf courses, go-carts and seven automatic batting cages, McQueen said the average person can do everything for under $10 in a safe, clean environment.

"Our employees promote safety," said McQueen. "They are polite, courteous and well-trained."

Catering to customers for more than a decade, the family-owned and operated business strives to make sure everyone is happy, said the manager who believes every customer should leave Sportsway with a smile.

Located at 38520 Ford Road in Westland, just east of Interstate 275, Sportsway is a seasonal business, open from April to October, but that has not detracted from their popularity, said McQueen.

"It's family fun for everyone at a family low cost."

- Bill McQueen Jr.

"Business has been great," he said. "Weekends are the most popular, but it gets pretty busy around here during the week in the afternoon."

Open from noon until 11 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and noon until midnight Friday and Saturday, McQueen said all of the attractions are popular.

"We have the finest miniature golf course in the world, one wraps around a castle and the other around a boat," he said. "And our go-carts ride around a 1/4 mile track with a big bridge and lots of turns."

Customers hoping to play miniature golf on the Harbour Course, can take advantage of a $1 special until 6 p.m. every night through August.

To maximize the opportunity for family fun, Sportsway will extend their hours in June, he added.

Rick Brown, manager at Sportsway, helps Brad Woolsey, 12, of Canton Township, learn the finer points of the brakes on a go cart at the popular fun center.

Furniture store offers cozy look

Your house feels more like home with hand-made outdoor furniture, says Bonnie Berg, owner of Bart's Rustic Furniture in Canton Township.

"Young couples buying a (front-porch) swing," Berg says, "usually means their grandparents had one. They want to re-create that special feeling of sitting on the porch at night rocking in a cool summer breeze. It feels more like home."

Bart and Bonnie Berg moved from Dearborn to their 10-acre Michigan Avenue home 44 years ago, Bonnie said, because Bart (now deceased) "always wanted a nursery business."

Sales of rustic outdoor furniture were incidental to an industrial lawn-maintenance enterprise, she said, until 1957 when the family focused primarily on marketing Clarkston manufactured Moon Valley rustic furniture.

Now a Great Lakes regional sales leader of quality outdoor furnisings to second-and-third generation families, Bart's Rustic Furniture offers Marine Spar varnished picnic tables in various adult and children's sizes and configurations, settees, two and four-person lawn chairs and rockers, tete-a-tete (which Bonnie appropriately names "sparkling benches"), coffee tables, double gliders with optional awning, old-fashioned front porch swings, wishing wells, windmills and a host of cedar-plank accessories.

Bart's offers delivery service and gift certificates.

"We're an excellent location to go to," Bonnie said. "when you can't think of a gift for Aunt Martha. There's no high pressure."

Bart's Rustic Furniture, 48630 Michigan Ave. is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. (May through late September), seven days a week, or call 495-0811 for details.

"When you love what you do and believe in your product, long hours are no big deal," Bonnie added.

Awnings attract clientele, provide sun protection

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

Awnings of all shapes, sizes and colors are receiving accolades from businesses and homeowners.

Business owners who have awnings accenting the front of their establishments have found that the covering not only attracts clientele, but it also assists in conserving energy.

Homeowners, too, can benefit from fabric awnings, according to William Bellinger, owner of Marygrove Awning Co. of Livonia. Bellinger said awnings add to the attractiveness of a home and make a house feel cooler.

"The main reason for purchasing an awning is for sun protection and cooling," Bellinger said. "People don't realize if you can stop the sun before it gets into the house, it can reduce the interior temperature by as much as 10 to 15 degrees."

By helping to reduce the interior temperature, awnings can save a homeowner 10 to 15 percent on the amount normally spent for air conditioning, according to Marygrove officials.

"Awnings do an excellent job of covering a deck or patio," Bellinger said. "People would get a lot more use with an awning over their deck."

"Another benefit is awnings would help save carpets and drapes from fading."

Fabric awnings are preferred because they breathe, allowing warm air collecting next to the window to escape, unlike plastic awnings which trap the warm air.

Other advantages of fabric awnings include the quiet they provide compared to other awnings when it rains, and fabric awnings are easier to take down in the winter months and then reinstall for the summer.

Marygrove Awning provides a storage and installation service to help homeowners maintain their investment.

While the name above the door says awning, there is more for customers to see than just window coverings. Bellinger said the company can provide customers with tarps, covers for assortment of items and banners.

In fact, the Livonia store can provide an almost unlimited selection of fabric coverings.

"We also sell fabric by the yard," Bellinger said. "The store stocks a variety of canvas, vinyl and vinyl coated, acrylic and polyester fabrics."

The awning company is located at 12700 Merriman Road, between Plymouth and Schoolcraft roads. It has been manufacturing, selling and installing fabric awnings since 1933. Store hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

For a consultation with Marygrove Awning officials call (313)422-7110.

Labadie's specializes in outstanding merchandise

A unique "mom and pop" business continues to get rave reviews from customers having offered their clientele quality service and a friendly atmosphere for more than 40 years.

Labadie's TV & Casual Furniture and Vie's Boutique not only has a wide variety of up-to-date fashions, but business owners Norm and Vie Labadie also stock the latest in electronics and patio furniture.

The business is located at 1707 West Road, at Fort Street, Trenton. Whether you are searching for a gift or unique novelty item, Labadie's has something for everyone at reasonable prices.

Labadie's first opened in 1966, primarily as a television repair and Magnavox home entertainment center. Today the business houses electronics, mattresses, patio furniture, gas grills, ladies fashions and accessories.

The sales approach is also very unique at Labadie's. Norm Labadie tells his customers to, "shop around, get your best price, and then come back and see me for a better deal."

Vie Labadie has worked for many years at her husband's side as co-owner, but, two years ago she created her own niche within the establishment. She took over a three-room area in the southwest corner of the building and turned it into a small world of fashions for women.

Her unique line of fashions include cruise wear and casual/chic apparel plus accessories and distinctively elegant and innovative jewelry. Customers can select from a wide-variety of fashions from New York, Paris and California.

She also has down-to-earth styles and upbeat, provocative clothing.

Throughout the years, the Labadie's have followed the different trends, and they have used good judgment in providing what their customer desires or needs. Their venture into outdoor furniture was a result of their discovery that outdoor furniture had grown in popularity and had become just as important as furnishing the inside of the house.

The Labadies realize that purchasing any appliance or furniture can be frustrating and rather time consuming, which is why they shop wisely and carefully when on buying trips to New York and Chicago where they purchase only quality merchandise.

Leisure lovers will be enticed by Labadie's latest acquisitions. New "Collectively, my partner and I have 40 years experience in the auto repair business," Bellovary said.

"While we service all style vehicles," he continued, "many street rod and custom car owners have flocked to our shop since it opened recently.

"In addition to selling Multi-Mile tires that carry mileage and road hazard warranties," Bellovary said, "we specialize in diagnostic and electrical repair work on all vehicles.

"With five mechanics and technicians and four hoists, we are prepared to service our customers quickly and efficiently," he added.

"If we do not have a product sought by a particular customer, we can order it and have it on the premises within hours," Bellovary explained.

Tuffy's Auto boosts experienced technicians

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The staff at Tuffy Auto Service of Taylor is fully equipped and trained to diagnose potential problems for vehicle owners and then to repair the problems before the family or business vehicle becomes stalled at an inopportune time.

Bob Henderson, business manager, said the Tuffy Auto Service shop opened at 9545 Telegraph, south of Wick Road, in Taylor in February 1990.

Owners, Ed and Dan Bedore, have equipped the premises with the most up-to-date diagnostic and repair equipment on the market, he added.

Three full-time repair specialists are available for timely service appointments, Henderson said, so that front ends, shocks, exhaust systems and steering mechanisms can be handled promptly and efficiently.

"Our staff also provides quality tune-ups, muffler installations and brake replacements. Our mufflers come with a lifetime warranty, as do our brake shoes and pads," Henderson said.

The Tuffy Auto Service team also is prepared to "get your vehicle ready for spring and summer trips," he said, "by checking your vehicle's hoses, belts, exhaust systems and brakes."

Other repairs offered are alignments and installation of starters and alternators.

"In the event your vehicle is not running, we can make arrangements for towing it to the Tuffy Auto Service site," Henderson said. "For those staying during the repair cycle," he said, "we have television, magazines, coffee, pop machines and snack trays available for our customers."

Tourle's offers discount prices

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Even though lawn care would not be on most people's top ten list of enjoyable activities, a Canton Township business is working hard to make lawn care easier to handle.

Tourle's Sales and Service offers quality lawn and garden equipment for discounted prices.

"Some of the bigger shops have a larger overhead," said co-owner Mike Tourle. "I have very little overhead, so I can offer better prices."

Located at 7775 Sheldon Road, between Joy and Warren, Tourle's Sales and Service has catered to many customers since their grand opening last April.

"We have customers from Garden City, Belleville, Plymouth and Westland, as well as Canton," said Tourle, who operates the shop with his wife, Pam.

Formerly White's Sales and Service, Tourle's offers a wide selection of Snapper products, lawn mowers and riding tractors. Customers can also purchase trimmers, edgers, blowers, etc.

Open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, Saturday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Tourles help customers in any way they can.

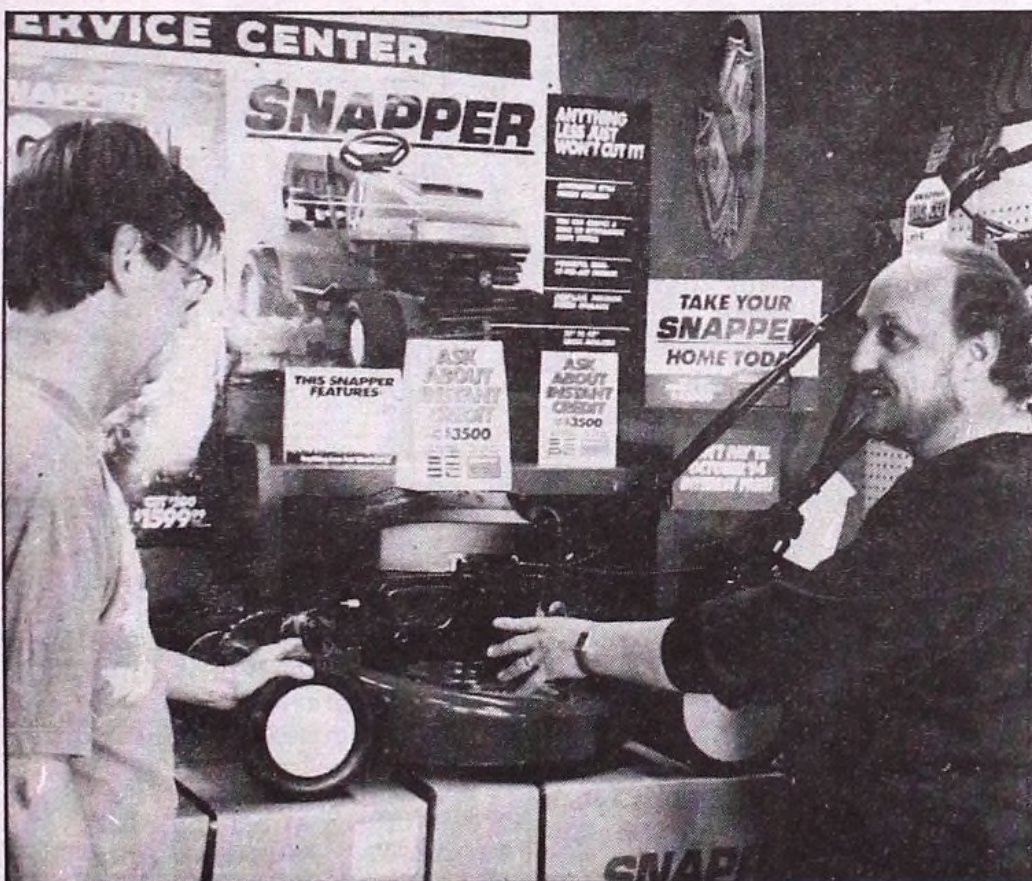

"We are here to serve them," said Mike Tourle, "and many customers have told us how nice it is to be put first."

- Mike Tourle
Owner

Aside from selling top-quality lawn and garden equipment, Tourle's Sales and Service also sells parts and offer repair work on most brands. Most items can be picked up in one week.

As the summer season gets underway and more people look toward Tourle's Sales and Service for their lawn care needs, Mike Tourle said the shop will extend its hours. He hopes to satisfy his customers with convenient hours and quality products for the next 20 years.

Barson's houses garden supplies

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Barson's Greenhouse of Westland has been supplying floral and vegetable plants and tips on gardening to the public for the past 14 years.

Joe and Debra Barson have fully stocked their annuals, perennials and hanging basket supplies so that they are ready for area homeowners' spring plantings.

Debra Barson said dozens of varieties of tomato and pepper plants also are available, as are all types of impatiens plants that can be planted in both the sun and shade.

"Repeat customers come to our greenhouses at 6414 Merriman Road (between Ford and Warren Roads) in Westland, because of the courtesy and knowledge offered by our staff, as well as the wide variety of our plants and garden supplies," she continued.

"Barson's has more than 15 varieties of red tomato and 12 separate pepper plants (hot and sweet, green and yellow)," she continued.

Back-yard gardeners can also find small hand tools and sacks of top soil and peat moss on the premises.

A wide variety of rose bushes, evergreens, azaleas and cherry trees are available on the large one and a half acre greenhouse area. "We have several dozen Radio Flyer wagons for customer use to transport their purchases from any of the greenhouses to their vehicles," Barson continued.

"Also our full-sun impatiens plants are watered for more than 20 minutes a day," she said.

Barson's also is one of the rare greenhouses that is open 12 months a year, Barson said, "as we only close one week and that is between Christmas and New Years."

"During the Easter season we have plenty of lilies, pumpkins and cornstalks around Halloween and grave blankets beginning in November," she said, "and prior to Christmas hundreds of Christmas trees, roping and poinsettias are available."

Because of the extensive grounds, Barson said, "We have the room to always be preparing for the next season."

The greenhouse sales area is open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Cab company ensures expert customer service

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

A local businessman is driving to be the best and has the lowest prices around to prove it.

Tom Peterson, general manager of the Westland Cab Co., has been serving customers for the past 27 years at 31376 Industrial Road, near Merriman and Schoolcraft in Livonia. The company originated in Nankin Township in 1937 under the ownership of Robert Minch.

"We're different from other cab companies because we're family-oriented," said the man. "Our employees cater to the handicapped and some of them have been around for almost 30 years."

When a customer calls in, the nearest driver responds, said Peterson. "Our dispatchers ensure all customers are served as quickly and efficiently as possible. That's something not all companies can guarantee."

Catering to customers seven days a week, 24 hours a day, Westland Cab Co. transports everyone within the boundaries of Van Born, Fourteen Mile, Telegraph and Napier roads, said the general manager, excluding the cities of Inkster and Wayne.

At $1.50 per mile, with a 25-cent drop for every 1/6 of a mile and a $1.50 flag (start-up fee), Westland Cab Co. focuses on handicapped customers.

"We offer a wheel-chair lift to our customers," Peterson said. "They wheel the chair onto a lift, then we clamp them down inside the van."

Expert training

William D. Ford helps students become competitive in fluctuating job market

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne-Westland schools are reaching out to area residents in search of a better future.

"We offer over 21 different technical training courses to students seeking entry-level or higher position in their field of training," said Rick Hamerick, assistant principal at William D. Ford Technical Center. "These are all high-demand fields and in one year, these students are employable."

After receiving a certificate of completion and competency printout, students are qualified for employment in automated manufacturing, data processing, accounting, media production, culinary arts and hospitality among many others.

Since the center opening in the fall of 1981, high school students have come from Garden City, Northville, Dearborn Heights, Allen Park, Wayne and Westland. The center also opened their doors to adult students who wanted to re-enter the job force or just needed to brush up on their skills.

"Our classes are open to everyone," said the assistant principal. "We encourage all people to train in non-traditional fields. For the longest time, there has been a myth that college-bound students should not attend, and it's just that-a myth."

Hamerick indicated there was a difference between most popular courses for the high school students and adults.

"Our most popular course for adults is heating, ventilation and air conditioning," said Hamerick. "For high school students, it's auto body repair, but that's not to say they are the most employable. People training in computer assisting manufacturing are being snatched up very quickly."

Classes at the technical center begin at 8:10 a.m. and continue until 10:30 p.m. With such a range of hours, the school is able to enroll more than 2000 students annually.

"We are comparable with courses offered at local community colleges," Hamerick said, "considerably less than private training schools."

William D. Ford Technical Center counselors will begin summer registration the second week in July.

Auto Finance reveals genuine interest in lending a helping hand

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The Auto Finance Center of Ypsilanti offers 75 used autos, trucks or vans for sale, particularly to those young customers who have no credit rating or those who have had a bad credit experience.

John Raider, Auto Finance Center spokesperson, explained, "Many persons, who have purchased used cars from us to re-establish their credit rating, come back later to tell us they just bought a brand new car."

Raider continued, "In the year and a half we have been in business here we have sold more than 1,100 vehicles. We take a genuine interest in helping people get their economic lives in order by providing them with good transportation and links to main line credit sources."

Auto Finance Center offers vehicles as inexpensive as several hundred of dollars and as expensive as about $7,000, Raider explained.

Some of the vehicles that Auto Finance Center sells come with service contracts, he said, "while others can be serviced with discount car product prices."

The Auto Finance office is located at 1379 East Michigan Ave. in Ypsilanti and offers guaranteed auto loans for customers. The business offers many makes and models of previously-owned vehicles from which to choose. More information about the facility is available at 482-1222. ANP photo by Ken Garner customers will find the newest look in casual furniture and all the accompanying accessories such as shatterproof plastic dishes and glassware, color coordinated place mats and umbrellas.

Return customers to Labadie's can count on the same quality they also expect from their favorite store such as finding top name-brand barbecue grills which include Ducane and patio furniture by POMPEII.

If there is an item or two you need but just can't find, the Labadies will most likely carry it. "It's always been our motto, 'If you don't see it, ask,'" Vie Labadie said.

"Labadie's will not be undersold in Michigan," Norm Labadie said. "We beat the competition every day. Just bring in any competitor's ad and not only will we beat it by 5 percent, we guarantee the lowest price for one year after purchase."

How can he make that guarantee?

Labadie said he sells quality merchandise, and he wants to give his customer his best deal. He credits his mother (an artist who also took in laundry and did typing to help add to the family's finances) for giving him a strong work spirit.

He said she taught him his best business advice, "Quality doesn't cost, it pays."

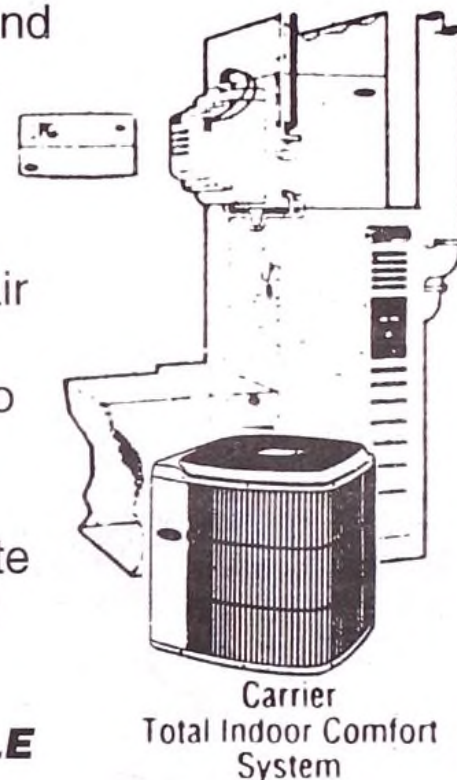

Because Labadie has always been hard-working and enterprising, he has gained a colorful work history. When he was only 9-1/2 years old, he set pins for league bowlers at a local bowling alley. From there, the young entrepreneur went on to get a $3 loan from a bank to purchase a brush, shoe polish and polishing cloths needed to start his own shoe-shine business.

Either the president of the bank recognized his talent and determination, or he knew shining shoes for five cents would be profitable for a 10-year-old because Labadie said "I got the loan and was the only kid in town with money in my pocket."

Heirloom creates top-notch items

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
ANP Staff Writer

After working to improve the communications network for 42 years, Velia Lauerma is focusing on communicating her desire to offer surrounding residents quality, American-made merchandise.

When Lauerma retired from the telephone company last year, she decided to stay active and open her own shop. Last September, the employees and listeners of HONEY radio shared her dream in a promotion dedicated to the grand opening of Heirloom Pieces, Ltd. in Westland. Sponsored by Taco Bell, McDonald's and Dunkin' Donuts, people came from far and wide to view the hot rods outside the shop, dance to the music from the 1950s and browse at Lauerma's antiques, crafts and collectibles.

The promotion was so big in fact, that she is considering having another grand opening as she moves to her new location at 34128 Van Born, east of Wayne Road in the city of Wayne.

According to Lauerma, her new location will offer an air of added history to her merchandise. Housed in a 1947 split-log cabin, the owner plans to add sewing and quilting classes to her repertoire of services.

"I have a quilt membership three times a week," said the woman. "I teach people how to make quilts just like my mother taught me. She's 90-years-old and still quilting for her 11 children."

Lauerma hopes to turn her shop into a sort of museum sometime in the future so that "visitors can come in and look at the place anytime, just like Greenfield Village."

Currently open seven days a week, Lauerma conducts sales from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and offers an afternoon tea on Sunday.

"My intention is to go back to the basics," said Lauerma, a member of the beautification committee in Wayne. "Everything is moving too fast, and I think people should stop and smell the roses."

Featuring only American-made products, Lauerma said the shop has something for everybody at affordable prices.

Lauerma depends on the assets of many people to run her shop, including Olga Byrd and Marie Munich, but her biggest inspiration will always be Belleville resident, Cande Gutierrez, she said.

"My mother is my biggest support," she said, "and I've dedicated this whole project to her."

Silver Sounds allows clients to customize their own entertainment

We party for a living.

It's looking like another busy Sunday at Silver Sounds Professional DJ. For most people, Sunday would be a relaxing day, but after weekend parties, the staff at Silver Sounds goes to work again.

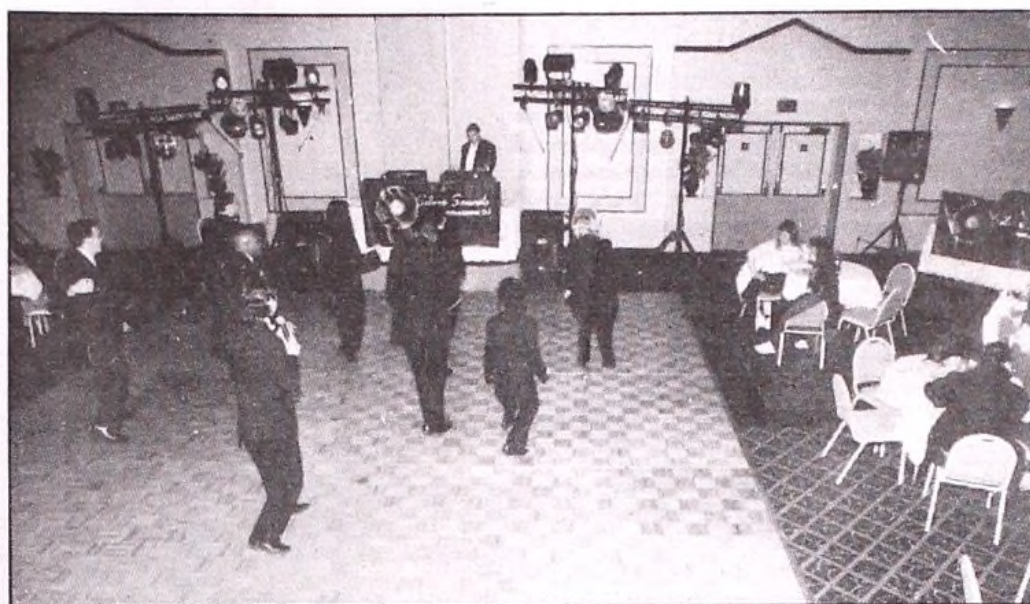

Sunday afternoon is a great way for anyone who is planning a party, wedding or bar mitzvah to see Silver Sounds live in action. When a client arrives at the office in Canton Township, they are shown everything the company has to offer.

Following a short presentation about the company, guests are taken into an audition studio where they have the opportunity to see what the equipment looks like when it is set up, as well as how it sounds.

All the lights and special effects are demonstrated including a mirror ball, bubble machine, helicopter, laser effect lighting and fog machine.

Disc jockeys who are available for the client's event date then come in one-by-one to "audition" themselves so the client can get a feel for their personalities.

Silver Sounds allows the client to select a specific DJ as opposed to just assigning one. Next, one of the Silver Sounds DJs work diligently to get crowds involved in the fun at wedding receptions and other events. Auditions are available to hear all the available personalities and see the equipment which can be used to entertain crowds.

DJs will take the engaged couple through a five-minute wedding reception to highlight possible events for the evening. This gives clients the opportunity to experience everything without having to "crash" another function.

"We wouldn't want to make anyone feel uncomfortable coming to see our DJs at someone else's reception," said Lori Ferkovich, owner of Silver Sounds. "That's why we developed this unique program with our audition studio. It allows us the opportunity to personalize each and every reception or function since we are meeting the client one-on-one."

The DJs at Silver Sounds do a lot more than just spin records. A Silver Sounds DJ's main goal at any party is to have a lot of crowd participation.

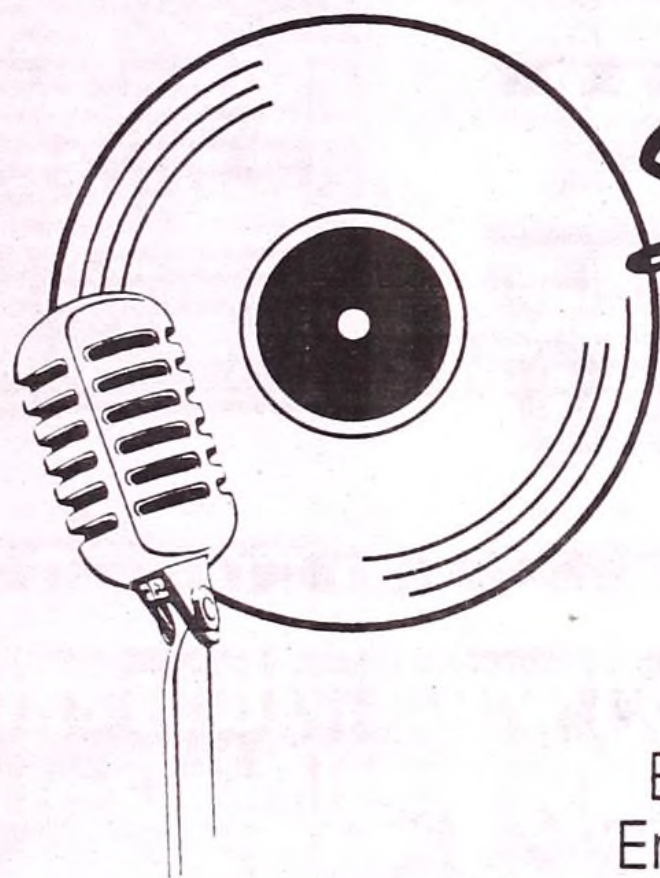

"We want the guests to be still talking even weeks after the party about the great time they had that night," said Bill Arrington, Silver Sounds on-site trainer. "Dances like the Chicken, YMCA, Hokey Pokey, Alligator or the Hustle are a great way to get everyone involved and on the dance floor. We do more than just play the song. We get on the floor and dance or teach guests different dance steps."

Arrington works with the new DJs at functions to show them the ins and outs of being an entertainer, not just a disc jockey.

Many of the DJs at Silver Sounds are graduates of the Specs Howard School of Broadcast Arts and some have previous radio or Mobile DJ experience.

Thom Kenney, voice and speech trainer for Silver Sounds, is a Specs Howard graduate and has been instrumental in making all of the DJs at Silver Sounds perform in more of a 90s fashion.

Community comfort lives up to the name

When you talk to any employee of Community Comfort Service or when you visit their Canton Township office, it is obvious the company is committed to customer satisfaction.

"I really believe that Community Comfort Service offers the consumer more bang for their buck than any other local heating and cooling company," boasted manager Tom Knight. "Our success is a direct reflection of our customers' satisfaction. A happy customer will tell his neighbors and friends what a great job our company did for him."

Community comfort Service offers a full line of Carrier heating and cooling equipment, but specializes in high efficient furnaces and air conditioners.

"More and more people are becoming aware of how much money a high efficient furnace and air conditioner can save them per month on their utility bills. In addition, they are also becoming more educated to the fact that the better equipment provides more comfort and is extremely quiet," Knight said.

The technically trained staff at Community Comfort Service is extremely knowledgeable and courteous. Some of the services this staff provides are seasonal maintenance, 24-hour service, custom duct fabrication and installation, system design, indoor air quality treatment and refrigerant reclaiming.

"Our newest service is called the Weather Doctors Plan. This is a maintenance and service plan for both residential and commercial systems. Our company will provide seasonal maintenance, preferential treatment, operational tips and parts discounts for a very fair price. In addition, if the customer requires service while under contract-- they are not charged a service call, even at 3 a.m. The Weather Doctors is a great plan," explained Knight's son, Dave Knight.

Community comfort Service offers free estimates on all installations.

"People interested in purchasing central air conditioning this spring have a tremendous opportunity to get a Carrier hi-efficient air conditioner with a free IAC meter and five years parts and labor and up to $200 in rebates. In addition, we are offering a discount on an air conditioning clean and check.

Dave, left, and Tom Knight, of Community Comfort Service pride themselves on providing fast, quality service to their customers. The business provides free estimates, 24-hour service and uses quality Carrier equipment for installations.
